Weather-Stirred Strait Defeats Dual Swim Effort

Juan de Fuca strait yesterday defeated both Victoria's Bill Muir and Toronto's Janice White and forced city salesman Johnny Flower to postpone his attempt until today, while pert Pat Russell was due to enter the water off Ediz hook early this morning.

Bad weather blew up in the turbulent strait last night and played havoc with plans of the swimmers.

Bill Muir, making his fourth and last attempt this year, lasted for five hours 11 minutes and 56 seconds after entering the water at Clover point. During that time he covered only about 3½ to four miles.

Despite an adverse tide for the first 30 minutes, the Saanich surveyor stroked well for the first hour when the power seemed to go out of his arms. He later said he fought a severe shoulder cramps for some four hours.

During the last hour he made so little progress that his navigator Ned Ashe advised him to give up.

Muir said he would tackle the strait again but not this year.

Janice White, the irrepressible Toronto teenager, started

Father's Risk Not Hereditary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force Saturday quashed ouster proceedings against a young reservist who had been accused of associating with his father, an alleged former Communist or Red sympathizer.

Secretary of the Air Force Quarles ruled that Airman 3C Stephen Branzovich, 22, of Farrell, Pa., is not a security risk.

The ruling came virtually on the eve of a Senate investigation, scheduled next week, into the Eisenhower administration's handling of security risk charges.

Among other things, the probe will look into several cases in which government agencies cracked down on employees, reportedly because they associated with parents, husbands or wives alleged to have links with Communism.

Branzovich had been scheduled to appear before a special board next Tuesday to answer ouster charges.

Quarles, announcing he had determined after personally reviewing the case that Branzovich's continued membership in the reserve "is consistent with the interests of the national security," said there would be no hearing.

East-West Gap 'Narrowing' Possible--Eden

STONLEIGH, England (AP) —Prime Minister Eden yesterday expressed confidence the Big Four foreign ministers "can narrow the gap" of East-West difference over Germany when they meet in October.

Airplane Lands on Truck, No One Hurt, Damage Light

OROFINO, Idaho (AP)—A light airplane gliding down toward the runway landed smack atop a speeding truck instead Friday and was carried piggy-back 200 yards down the highway by the unknowing driver.

No one was hurt and the damage to the plane and truck was comparatively light.

Pilot Merel Bowler, 43, said he was only seconds away from a routine landing when "the truck drove under us."

"I heard a little noise like a blowout or something but I didn't know anything was back there," said Lloyd Coons, 27, the truck driver. "Then a wing tipped and I saw a shadow.

"I stopped, got out and looked up there. The two pilots were looking out of their cabin and they weren't hurt at all."

The truck-trailer is 50 feet long and 13½ feet high.

Egg Laid in 400 B.C. Found Unbroken

FERRARA, Italy (Reuters)—An unbroken hen egg was discovered Friday in a tomb dating back to the fourth century before Christ during excavation near Spina in the Po valley.

The egg was full of a black salty liquid which Prof. Hereo Alfiere of Ferrara Museum said had probably been absorbed through the eggshell over the centuries.

Sport Flashes

This happened in the world of sport yesterday:

Victoria Shamrocks downed Nanaimo 15-13 in the first game of their best-of-seven playoff finals; B.C. Lions bowed to Grey Cup champions Edmonton Eskimos 29-12; Vancouver's Stan Leonard is tied for third place four strokes behind the leader in the $26,800 Labatt golf tournament; Australia regained the Davis Cup; and the race for the American league pennant tightened still further.

Canada Wants New Markets Behind Curtain

OTTAWA—Canada definitely is interested in selling agriculture products to Soviet Russia and its satellite countries, federal officials said today.

It has already sold some surplus products to Iron Curtain countries and always is looking for markets there, one official said.

He was commenting on Washington reports quoting U.S. Agriculture Secretary Benson as endorsing the idea of selling U.S. surpluses to Russia.

"We are always offering grain in western Europe," the Canadian official said. "We have no hesitation in doing so."

Last year, Canada sold barley to Russia. This year, the government made a deal with Poland to sell about 9,000,000 bushels of wheat and sold 300,000 pounds of butter to Czechoslovakia.

Natural Gas Gets Approval

VANCOUVER (BUP) — B.C. Electric spokesman, Dr. Harry Purdy, Saturday announced that the public utilities commission has issued his company with a permit to serve Vancouver with natural gas.

Public Opinion Poll

Survey Shows B.C. Voters Satisfied with Socreds

Support Increases

This is the first of a series of articles by Daily Colonist legislative reporter Ray Baines on B.C.'s political situation and relative popularity of the parties. They are the result of poll of ten ridings taken in May by a public opinion firm, plus a fact-finding tour by Mr. Baines during the summer.

By RAY BAINES

Though the Conservatives may doubt it, the CCF disbelieve it and the Liberals deplore it, there is strong evidence to show that B.C.'s Social Credit government will be around for a while.

This is not just the opinion of experts nor the hope of Social Credit followers, it is the promise of voters.

It is based on facts, percentages, expressions of support obtained from hundreds of British Columbia citizens eligible to vote in any general election which might come up in the next three years.

It is based on a scientific poll of some 1,400 voters in 10 ridings conducted in May this year by a U.S. public opinion poll organization at the request of a group of British Columbia industrialists.

It is supported by a random series of interviews conducted during the summer by this reporter in about 18 B.C. ridings.

While neither poll, nor both together, can be considered complete cross-sections of the province, the U.S. poll in particular, carefully worked out with weighed results, leaves little doubt that the present government is popular, would be returned with a greater majority and has gained considerable ground since 1953.

Conducted by a U.S. public opinion organization, the scientific poll covered the ridings of Vancouver-Burrard, Vancouver-Point Grey, Cowichan-Newcastle, Yale, Kamloops, South Okanagan, Prince Rupert, Fort George, Nelson-Creston and Lillooet.

The survey firm was from outside Canada. It knew nothing of B.C.'s recent political history before it conducted the hundreds of detailed interviews. And the pollsters cared less. They asked questions and recorded the answers, come what may.

This reporter covered more ridings but far fewer persons. The interviews were in the nature of chats with business men, workers and farmers. The results were similar. A large percentage of persons chosen at random are satisfied, or at least not dissatisfied, with the present government.

But for the purpose of these articles, we will concentrate mainly on the U.S. survey results and use The Daily Colonist survey merely to illustrate the kind of opinions expressed.

Here, then, are some of the conclusions reached by the survey team after 1,400 personal interviews and a process of weighing results to account for those ridings not covered:

1. There is a great deal of evidence to show gains in Social Credit strength since the 1953 election. It is shown by higher ratios of approval rather than disapproval of various government policies, lack of interest in the next general election, popularity of Premier W. A. C. Bennett, and a tendency for those questioned to identify themselves with the party in power (10 per cent more persons said they voted Social Credit in the last election than actually did).

Two Dead, 44 Injured

Raging Holocaust Follows Gas-Cracking Tower Blast

WHITING, Ind. (AP) — A raging fire, touched off by explosion of a 26-storey gasoline cracking tower, took two lives, injured 44, and made a shambles of sections of the Standard Oil Co. Ind. refinrey Saturday.

About 950 families were evacuated from their homes. Gasoline raced down the streets of this Northern Indiana city of about 10,000 population. The gasoline ran into sewers and police issued a "No smoking" order.

Damage was estimated all the way from $10,000,000 to $100,000,000.

A hurtling piece of the huge tower smashed through the frame house of Frank Plewniak, killing his 3-year-old son, Richard, in his bed. Another son, Ronald, suffered loss of his left leg, and the father was cut by hurtling plaster.

The other death was that of Walter Rhea, 63, a foreman at the refinery, who collapsed of a heart attack after he was summoned to emergency duty.

After the initial thunderclap of force, flames spread among oil storage tanks of the big refinery. They roared through some 30 tanks and twisted two other gasoline cracking units.

But a few minutes later, a tank containing 3,200,000 gallons of naptha-propane exploded with a blinding whoosh, sending flames 1,000 feet into the air.

Company officials said it may be days before the fire actually is extinguished.

Senator Reports Radar Line Gap

LAKE STEVENS, Wash. (AP)—A critical hole has been found in the nation's outer radar warning line between Greenland and Alaska and the defence department is taking rapid steps to plug it, Sen. Jackson (D. Wash) said Saturday.

Jackson, speaking at a big rally of Western Washington Democrats, said the gap in the distant early warning (DEW) line is serious enough to place mid-continental United States in jeopardy should an enemy attack.

The senator, member of a three-man Senate committee which authorizes military construction, has just returned from a flight over the warning network in the Far North.

He reported that the warning system is being expanded on a speeded up basis, with new installations in operation by 1957.

He did not specify where the gap had been found or how soon it would be closed.

A crowd estimated at more than 6,000 persons attended the big salmon bake and speech fest, with much spadework done by supporters of Sec. of State Earl Coe and State Sen. Albert D. Rosellini, both of whom are seeking the Democratic nomination for governor next year.

Culture Booming

Victoria should concentrate on becoming the cultural capital of Canada and forget about winning new industries, says a leading Toronto business man.

Richard L. Thomas, Colonist London correspondent, tells the story on Page 6, and accompanying accounts of the coming entertainment year in Victoria show that the cultural strength of the city is already growing.

Bluebloods and Bankrolls

Admiral Elsa Takes Cruise Party on Venetian Blind

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Sailing out of the Grand Canal with "Adm." Elsa Maxwell on the bridge, the good ship Achilleus headed for Greece Saturday with a passenger list of bluebloods and bulging bankrolls.

It was all part of a plan by Miss Maxwell, famous party giver, to provide her 113 socially prominent guests with fun, culture, and an insight into the tourist attractions of Greece during a 15-day cruise.

Wearing a gold-braided admiral's uniform, Miss Maxwell had a kiss and a bear hug for the Social Register emissaries accompanying her.

There were more crewmen than guests—190 to be exact—to see that the vessel operated smoothly and that there was not an empty glass aboard. The Achilleus was well stocked with fancy food and drinks, including champagne.

The Achilleus is a passenger ship of the Greek Line, chartered for $100,000 by Greek millionaire Stavros Niarchos as his contribution to the voyage. He also provided the supplies and entertainment.

Miss Maxwell said "friends" backed her for the other expenses. Unofficial sources said the Greek government was sharing the costs to build up the tourist trade. Greece's King Paul I suggested the cruise.

After providing the ship, Niarchos decided not to take the cruise. There were other plush names on the passenger list, including France's former Premier Paul Reynaud; film star Olivia de Havilland; the French Duke and Duchess de Brissac; Count Rudy Crespi of Italy and his countess, the former Consuelo O'Connor of New York; Broadway producer Gilbert Miller; Metropolitan Opera singer Cesare Pepi; the Duke and Duchess of Argyll; writer Frederick Prokosch, and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Sr.

One couple was conspicuously absent—the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. They were in Venice, but efforts by friends failed to end the long spat between Miss Maxwell and the duchess.

Two more prominent guests were expected to join the party at Athens—Prince Ali Khan and Mrs. Perle Mesta, former minister from the United States to Luxembourg and a famous party giver herself.

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE scientists are trying to take all the fun out of driving. If we don't keep a shrewd eye on the rascals, they'll make it impossible for us to knock down a pedestrian or a traffic cop.

They also threaten to reduce the number and severity of road accidents, thereby flinging thousands of ambulance drivers and morticians out of work.

To start with, they have equipped a car with radar which automatically brings the vehicle to a halt before it strikes a person or an object.

Tested recently in Washington, D.C., the radar car defied all efforts to make it collide with statues and public buildings.

Bystanders who were braced for a satisfying crash and a shower of masonry stood there open-mouthed when the car tamely glided to a stop.

And at last it dawned on the frustrated onlookers that science has produced a car more intelligent than the man driving it. Considering the low mental calibre of some of the drivers who clog our streets every day, that might seem a small achievement. However, it is an achievement that could change our way of life, unless the ambulance drivers' and morticians' lobby manages to have radar cars made illegal.

* * *

That isn't all. Premier Bennett is having provincial cars fitted with safety belts; and research shows that hedges of rose bush at the side of the road will bring a careening car to a gentle stop in a shower of petals with little damage to the occupants.

The driver winds up in a fragrant thicket with no worse injury than some scratches on the arm which is still out the window giving a wrong signal.

The hedges make good buffers when the roses are in bloom. This winter the scientists will carry out further tests to see if the bushes retain their bounce.

If all these busybodies succeed, they will make the roads safe for nitwits and normal citizens alike, and the usefulness of the automobile as a device for eliminating the unfit will be ended.

The automobile is a machine which has got somewhat out of control. You would expect it to be tamed only by some other product of the machine age. Radar answers that description. But when it comes to putting a wall around the road, the engineers don't bother with reinforced concrete, or new, scratch-proof, stain-resistant Schmolium.

Instead, they employ a rose bush. There is something refreshing and satisfactory about Nature being called up as an ally against the unruly machine.

When all the highways from coast to coast are fenced in with roses, the landscape may be monotonous, but at least it will be safe, and easy on the eye and nose. So far, flowers have not been made to grow in the form of advertising messages, and one hopes they never will.

From B.C. to Newfoundland it will be roses, roses all the way.

Trouble in Familiar Place

Angry anti-French demonstrators overturn a police car at Neunkirchen, Saarland, as old fires are rekindled by the approach of a showdown election on Oct. 23. Saar voters will then determine the fate of Johannes Hoffmann, French premier of the district. Also involved is a proposal to "Europeanize" the Saar while leaving it economically attached to France. Meanwhile, tempers flared and police were forced to use tear gas to break up a mob marching on a rally being addressed by Hoffmann.—(Central Press Canadian.)

THE VOICE OF ONE

BY FRANK S. MORLEY

How pleasant to see signs, located particularly in the eastern states, proclaiming in large letters, "Welcome to Canadians!" "We Like Canadians!" Our hearts warmed. We bubbled with brotherhood. We looked for hands to clasp.

Alas for the sad contradiction between faith and practice! Glowing warmly we drove over Washington Bridge. I had travelers' cheques, but had run short of American cash. A man at the gate handed back my Canadian coin. "That money's no good here!" I protested "That dollar's at least as good as yours." "My orders are American money or nothing," he snarled.

Our combined purses yielded sufficient nickels. By this time a row of cars a mile long was honking. We thought of the signs, sighed, and drove on.

Next day my mother-in-law, not having travellers' cheques, tried to exchange Canadian money for American at a bank. She was told that only one bank in New York could change foreign currency! The Canadian dollar may be worth more than the American, but you'd never guess it.

New York was like the burning fiery furnace you read about in the Book of Daniel. So we tried to get an air-conditioned room. It was not easy. Finally we got one that claimed to be air-conditioned. The claim was a bit far fetched. Tired and hot we resigned ourselves to it.

After a good dinner at that interesting place, "King of the Sea" (the proprietor was written up by Ripley in "Believe It or Not" as having eaten no meat but only fish every day of his life), we went to bed.

At midnight we wakened with the noise of fire engines. "I think it's here," my wife said. "Nonsense," I replied, then stuck my head out into a corridor filled with smoke. "The place is on fire," I shouted. "Let's get out!"

Mary got her mother and we made our way down the narrow stairway from the tenth floor. The elevators were not working. At the sixth floor firemen fought a blaze not more than ten feet from the little landing. We crowded past, down the slippery step. I mistook the mezzanine for the main floor and nearly got lost in the smoke.

We Happily Headed North

Nearly everybody else had got out before us. Firemen worked with respirators over smoke-filled victims. Policemen were everywhere. Nobody is more helpful than a New York policeman. They stood around, talking to friends, arms around some of the women whom they evidently knew, and resented being interrupted. We found another hotel and went to bed. At noon we headed happily north.

The new "through-ways" are the highways of the future. You can go right through from Buffalo to New York without a single intersection or passing through a single town. About every 50 miles you can get gas or refreshments. To stop on the highway is forbidden except in emergencies. Patrol cars look out for stranded motorists and give free help.

It was built by insurance companies. The toll cost is $4.50. Another such highway was built by the states involved from New York to Boston and has a series of tolls.

The war-scare is more serious in the United States than in Canada. You realize that when you see the shelter stations. Signs on the road read, "In the event of an enemy attack on New York, this highway will be closed to all traffic except military vehicles." "In the event of an air-raid pull off to the side."

I nave often visited New York. I like its plays, museums, music, ball-games, and planetarium. It's a nervous city, filled with highly-strung, unhappy people, mostly from Southern Europe.

But when I think of New York on this occasion I shall remember the smartly-dressed business man in a subway who got up and with fine courtesy offered his seat to a tired out old Negress in a shabby dress, "Would you please sit here, lady?"

I shall remember that temple of modern business, Rockefeller Centre. From every window you see flowers and green grass. Rockefeller Centre has four acres of gardens, more than the famous Hanging Gardens of Babylon, a tribute to the unconquerable yearning for beauty rising triumphantly from the prison of metropolitan commercial fury.

And I shall remember the signs, "Welcome Canadians!" It's good to know the desire is there anyway.

Amalgamation Survey Planned

Co-operation of city council and district municipal councils in assisting a proposed survey to determine feasibility of amalgamation will be asked by the joint junior and senior chambers of commerce.

Letters have been sent by the chambers, to city, Esquimalt, Oak Bay and Saanich councils, Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black (for View Royal) and the Greater Victoria school board to determine opinion on the study.

H. L. Crombie, managing secretary of the senior chamber, said last night that the study would be the same as impartial surveys conducted by experts in the field of amalgamation in other cities.

"We are taking no stand on the subject of amalgamation," he said. "And we are not urging the municipalities to take a stand. All we are asking is for co-operation in obtaining the facts to conduct the survey. Without co-operation, the survey is useless."

Mr. Crombie said one of the top experts in the field of municipal amalgamation is available to conduct the survey and that the entire cost would be underwritten by the joint chambers. He estimated the cost at a maximum of $5,000.

How long an investigation would take depends on fact-finding groundwork done by the areas concerned on such matters as population growth and increase in mill rates in the past 10 and 20 years.

"If we get the co-operation necessary for the success of the survey," Mr. Crombie said, "it should be completed by the end of the year."

Raccoon Issue Deserves More Study

By B. ROBERT MAGGS

There has been much controversy and I have received numerout calls and letters on the subject of a family of raccoons destroyed by the police at the request of one of our councilmen.

I would hesitate to express an official opinion, but—"fools rush in"—so here goes. Since I have known the police force of Greater Victoria, and the RCMP, I have yet to see them kill merely for the sake of killing.

I feel sure that the councilman would not jeopardize the goodwill of the people by requesting wanton killing of harmless animals.

Perhaps in that particular neighborhood there is someone who has a pet which is a delicacy to raccoons. In fact I once had to personally destroy three 'coons in Esquimalt which had cost a rabbit breeder about $200.

As you know, I do not condone the killing of animals unless for their own good or because they are a menace to what we laughingly call society. And I wish you good people would reserve your decision and not too hastily classify the police and councilman as a group of ogres.

My friend Gem Mortimore wrote an interesting column on this subject, and he always writes his honest opinion. I hope that he will understand my position. If I could honestly say that our local gendarmes and their chief were a bunch of unfair, uncouth trigger-happy fools I wouldn't hesitate to say so. But I do not think that is the case.

Questions

Mrs. N. E. writes that her husband has two pointers and wishes to know what to do to harden their feet for the hunting season.

A. There are several methods of hardening the pads of a hunting dogs feet, such as soaking the feet in a saline solution, or using alum, etc., but I prefer to exercise a dog regularly, starting gradually of course, on ground which will harden the pads naturally.

A dog perspires mostly from his tongue, but don't forget that he also perspires a slight amount through his foot pads and to harden them by using a chemical solution would interfere with this function, whereas, if his pads harden naturally by usage, the soft part will perspire.

Mrs. G. S.—Has a toy fox terrier female puppy age two months and wishes to know at what age to breed her. Also whether it is advisable to buy a male dog of the same breed or make other arrangements.

A. I believe in breeding a bitch during her second heat, and of course during any subsequent heat, but naturally not every time she comes in season. If you are considering founding your own kennel it would be as well to have your own stud dog. If not, then I would advise that you take into consideration any possible defects in your female, and select a stud dog who can supply those qualities lacking.

The choice of a mate for your dog is very important. The merits of one parent are very likely to correct the faults of the other. The bitch comes into her first season at about nine or 10 months old, and then with fair regularity every six months. The gestation period is 62 days.

Enters Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Jean Hersholt, 69, Danish-born actor best known for his role of Dr. Christian on radio, was in "good condition" yesterday in a hospital at nearby Santa Monica following an operation.

The veteran actor and long-time president of the motion picture relief fund underwent surgery Friday. His physician did not disclose the nature of the operation.

Steel Needs To Be Imported

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India will import 200,000 tons of steel, worth $26,000,000, to meet the requirements of Indian railways this year. Deputy commerce minister Nityanand Kanaungo told Parliament Friday that the steel will be imported from Britain, Japan, Belgium, France, Czechoslovakia, Russia, the United States and West Germany.

Garden Notes

Any Size Beets Easy To Store

BY M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

Storage of Beets — (N.B.B., Victoria). Beets don't have to reach any particular degree of maturity before pulling, and they will store just as well at golf ball size as when they are big and coarse.

Ease them out of the ground carefully, as bruises or broken tap roots will cause them to "bleed." Don't cut the leaves off too close, but leave stubs 1½ inches long. Don't dry off the beets or attempt to wash them, but get them under cover immediately, storing them in layers in boxes of sand, ashes, or sifted garden soil.

Tomato End Rot — (B.L.W., Nanaimo). The rotting of your tomatoes at the blossom end is not a disease, but is due to an irregular water supply or to poor root action. If the plant can't get enough water for its needs, either through dry soil or because the roots are damaged or rotted, it will turn cannibal and feed upon its own fruits, causing the darkened, translucent area on the blossom end of the green tomatoes.

A really deep watering followed by a heavy mulch of straw will usually check this trouble.

Montbretia Yellows — (J.Y., Duncan.) A lot of Montbretias are suffering this year from the trouble which is affecting your plants. It is a fungus disease known as "yellows," the spores of which settle on the leaf and work their way inside. Once in the bloodstream of the plant, the disease dissolves the green coloring matter of the leaves, and the plant takes on a sickly, pale, anaemic appearance.

Fortunately, this disease is quite easy to control, using our old friend, permanganate of potash, which is a remarkably useful chemical to keep on any gardener's remedy shelf. Use half a teaspoonful of the little brown crystals in two gallons of water, which makes a solution of a rich purple shade. Spray the plants with this, then water the roots with the same solution, giving each clump four pints of the mixture. Recovery will be speedy and complete.

Lawn Troubles — (R. McG., Victoria). The black color of soil is no guarantee of its worth. We have some soils hereabouts as black as the inside of your hat, yet it isn't worth a pinch of coon feathers for making a lawn.

If the black soil you bought and put down is baking and cracking, it is a sure sign that there is too much clay in it. I suggest you pierce it all over with a digging fork, or better still, a hollow-tined aerator fork, then buy a load of brick sand, mix grass seed and fertilizer with it, and spread it an inch deep all over your sick lawn.

The sand layer will keep the surface of the clay soil from drying out and baking hard, and some of it will work down into the holes, lightening the clay and encouraging the grass roots to push down.

Brick sand is a coarse grade, with large sharp particles, and with lots of very small stones in it. This is much better for the purpose than fine sand, which can bake almost as badly as the clay.

Self-Billed Killer Meets His Fate At Folly Beach

FOLLY BEACH, S.C. (AP)—FBI agents Saturday night arrested El- [illegible] described as a "self-professed New York killer" who figured in a "fantastic" jail break a year ago.

He also had figured in some of the ramifications of the famous Brink's million-dollar holdup.

Julius Lopez, special agent in charge of the Savannah, Ga., office of the FBI said Burke was arrested as he stood under a streetlight on the main street of this beach resort town 12 miles south of Charleston.

Lopez said Burke surrendered meekly. He was not armed, although he had two pistols and two rifles cached in his rented cottage some five blocks away.

The FBI said Burke had been sought for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for murder as a result of the fatal shooting of Edward Walsh in New York City on July 24, 1952.

He also was sought for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution for assault with a dangerous weapon on a prison guard during a jail break at Boston on Aug. 28, 1954.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said Burke had previously been arrested by the Boston police on June 17, 1954 for possessing a submachine gun and had been placed in the Suffolk County Jail.

Burke was delivered from Suffolk County jail in Boston in a bold break exactly a year ago this Sunday.

Two accomplices broke into the jail on a Saturday afternoon and, acting with the same daring and precision as the fabulous Brink's robbers, freed Burke.

The accomplices, dressed in guards' uniforms filtered through gates and doors to release Burke. After getting out of the jail, the notorious gunman was whisked away in a car driven by a bewigged man dressed as a woman.

Burke was awaiting trial for illegal possession of a sub-machine gun which police said was used in the ambush of Joseph J. (Specs) O'Keefe, at one time a prime suspect in the $1,219,000 Brink's holdup in 1950.

Boston police theorized that Burke, a 37-year-old former Army ranger was imported from New York to kill the oft-questioned Brink's robbery suspect.

Strait Wins Again

her third attempt at 2.14 p.m. yesterday from Gonzales point. The weather was good at the start but strong winds were expected.

She cleared the tip of Trial Island after 90 minutes and was about two miles from the starting point when the wind rose. The cheerful swimmer remained confident but it was clear to observers that the swim would not last long.

After covering some six miles southeast from Gonzales, Janice found it impossible to make any headway when a tide, which was expected to swing her to Port Angeles, did not materialize.

Eventually, after four hours and 48 minutes, she came out of the water beaten by the weather and weather alone.

Janice and her advisers are considering the question of a fourth attempt.

Meanwhile Johnny Flower, 35-year-old Victoria salesman, postponed his attempt until 11.30 p.m. or midnight today.

Also scheduled to make an attempt is Vancouver's Pat Russell, who was due to enter the water at Port Angeles early this morning. Miss Russell and her party left Victoria at 9 p.m. last night aboard the Burrard Chief for Port Angeles.

It will be her second attempt, and first from the United States side of the strait.

France Plans Troop Switch

PARIS (Reuters) — The French government has told Gen. Alfred Gruenther, supreme Allied commander in Europe, that it plans withdrawing six battalions for service in North Africa from its NATO forces in Germany, well-informed sources said Saturday.

Under the North Atlantic alliance, France has the right to dispose of her NATO forces but must first inform the NATO commander of their transfer.

Dominant Sex Got Him Down

HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Actor Sterling Hayden, 39, has won an uncontested divorce from former model Betty Dennon on charges he tried to dominate him.

Hayden testified before superior judge Lloyd S. Nix yesterday that the pretty 33-year-old ex-model forced the break-up of their marriage by trying to run his life so completely that he could no longer stand it.

Green Thumb Yields Good Crop

It takes a genuine green thumb to grow peach trees as heavily laden as this one. Master gardener John Sarsiat, 3317 Tennyson, expects to reap a harvest of 100 dozen peaches from the eight nine-year-old "Rochester" variety trees in his garden. For 43 years Mr. Sarsiat was a gardener for several well-known Victoria families. Many people call his small but beautiful garden "Little Butchart's."

Hearing Dates Not Fixed For Minimum Wage Review

By BILL MAVOR

The Board of Industrial Relations will hold further public hearings at Vancouver during October as part of its review of the minimum wage in the manufacturing industry.

Chairman William Sands said Friday that no dates have been set for the hearings, when it is hoped further public opinions will be placed before the board.

The board in June held hearings in Victoria and the mainland city, but no further hearings are scheduled on the Island.

At the earlier hearings trade unions and the Canadian Manufacturers' Association were about a $1 an hour apart in suggestions that the present minimum of 40 cents be increased.

Victoria Trades and Labor Council (AFL-TLC) suggested $1.50 an hour. On the mainland, the CMA suggested 55 cents for women and 60 cents for men, with retention of learners' rates. The union asked that these be abolished.

Such rates now are from 31 to 40 cents an hour during the first six months.

The CMA supported its stand with the claim it would not be wise to move the minimum wage too near the going rate when other provinces maintain a comparatively low minimum.

With return of competitive conditions, the CMA said, B.C. would not be able to maintain the present wage scale.

An early statement can be expected regarding a plan to undertake job evaluation in plywood plants, IWA district president Joe Morris states.

The union executive board has given authority to appoint and train an IWA member of a two-man team which will do the work, agreed to under recent contract negotiations.

A strong delegation of unionists is expected to be present in Victoria court house at 2 p.m. tomorrow to present a brief to the Royal Commission on coasting trade.

The brief, supporting subsidies for west coast shipbuilding and other points, was prepared jointly by unions of Vancouver and Victoria shipyards.

The commission also will hold a session from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday before going to Vancouver.

Channel Time Over Record

CALAIS (AP) — Swimming pool manager Bill Pickering from Bloxwich today crossed the English channel from Dover to Calais in 14 hours, six minutes.

Pickering's time was 21 minutes short of the crossing record of 13 hours, 45 minutes by Egyptian Abd el Latif Abd el Abou on Aug. 3, 1953.

Pickering's crossing was the first of this year from England to France.

Popularity of Socreds Now Greater Than Ever

2. The direction of those who have changed their party support since 1953 is toward Social Credit and away from all other parties. Social Credit gains more from each party than it loses to that party, while none of the others gain much from each other.

3. There is more interest in highways, bridges and other public works (matters being vigorously attended to by the government) than in social welfare measures. This indicates that times are good and people are not unhappy with either the economy or the government.

4. There is not much dissatisfaction with the government policies on any of nine points listed. In every case approval far outweight disapproval. Averaging answers on all nine subjects—highways, sales tax revision, workmens compensation, PGE extensions, labor legislation, forest management licences, liquor and the 10 per cent industrial tax—disapproval was only voiced by eight per cent. (In every question asked, there was always about 25 per cent with no opinion, no preference.)

5. More people said Premier Bennett would make the best premier—as compared to Liberal Arthur Laing, CCF Arnold Webster, Conservative Deane Finlayson — than all others combined by two to one.

6. Even those who said they plan to vote for some party other than Social Credit did not find fault with the government—their preference was traditional loyalty, dislike of a new "upstart" movement, family habit.

7. Social Credit has retained more of its 1953 supporters than the other parties (77 per cent as compared to 61 per cent CCF and 62 per cent Liberal and only 49 per cent Conservative.) A big share of the 51 per cent Conservative "deserters" said they would now vote Social Credit.

These have been a number of general conclusions based on very detailed questions and answers on percentages.

Some of them are conclusions reached by the survey team as a result of long experience in drawing them from statistical reports.

In subsequent articles in this series we will try to show some of the details of the survey and how the conclusions were reached together with illustrations of answers given.

The poll firm admitted the 10 ridings were not in themselves an accurate cross-section of the province though they are considered "key ridings." An accurate cross section within ridings was obtained, however, by selection of polling districts whose final results were nearest that of the whole riding in the 1953 general election.

The weighing was achieved by eliminating one entire riding and nine other polling districts from the tabulation and assigning greater numerical weight to certain populated areas such as Vancouver Island and the Vancouver metropolitan area and less to the upper province, interior and lower mainland areas.

Weighting reduced Social Credit strength and increased those of other parties but in no case altered the over-all results.

Stock Car Racing is Tough Says Former Enthusiast

By J. T. JONES

Had a splendid time out at Western Speedway last week (the arm's healing nicely, thank you) but I think I'll leave that kind of racing to others from now on.

Somebody else is welcome to hurl his car sideways into a bumpy bend at 70. I'll just sit up here in this comfortable grandstand and admire his nerve.

For the record, I didn't even finish in the press-radio race last week. Somewhere about the seventh lap a gap opened up between the car ahead and the inside wall.

The old do-or-die spirit surged up, I pointed the car at the opening and tramped on it. Thereupon the back end of my mount broke away sideways, I swung the wheel over to control the slide, clipped the man I was trying to pass and spun him right around.

As he came around, I hit him, and for use the race ended right there.

EXIT BOTH HOPES

As it happened, my victim was the only other Colonist man in the final, Ian Macdonald, and because we were in pretty good position at the time he still hasn't forgiven me.

I don't know who the other driver was that I sent spinning into the infield a couple of laps earlier.

* * *

The crash that finished us off was a great clincher for the safety-belt argument. That collision at that speed, without protection would have brought out the ambulances for sure. As it was, solidly belted in and wearing crash helmets, our injuries added up to a stiff neck for Macdonald and a scraped elbow for me.

* * *

What's it like to drive these snorting stock cars? Stick around a minute and I'll tell all I know.

In the first place, the cars are far from stock. The rules say all parts have to be made by the same manufacturer, and must be available from regular dealers.

In practice, a Model B Ford frame with a Mercury engine is typical. Engines may be reworked, within limits which at present are a bit obscure.

Bodies are stripped down to the bare shell, and a good part of that is cut away. Glass is all removed.

Safety precautions are thorough. Besides seat belts and helmets, drivers are protected by steel roll bars above their heads, and engines are guarded by massive bumpers.

The stockers generally handle like gravel trucks, and the rough track doesn't help. One entry in the press-radio event had to drop out because his arms got too weak to manage the car — and he's quite a sturdy type.

Basic driving technique is simple enough—go like mad on the straights, back off entering the turns, sling the car sideways and hold it in the groove with the loud pedal.

In the midst of all the bucking and wrenching, with a din like the great gong of Bangkok inside your helmet, this isn't as simple as it sounds.

OTHER WORRIES

Moreover, in a race there will undoubtedly be three other cars wanting the same groove, your foot will be bouncing on the accelerator and the steering wheel will do its best to wind your arms up like spaghetti.

It's like trying to balance a ping-pong ball on the end of a pneumatic drill. Still, the regular drivers manage it.

* * *

Date of the Cassidy airport sports car races has been set definitely as Sept. 25. I'd like to hear from any Victoria entries. Trevor Woodruff will be out again, in the production MG class.

Right now he's desperately looking for a pair of 1½-inch SU carburetors. If anyone has a set they can spare for a few days, it will make Victoria chances that much better.

THE NOT-SO-GOOD OLD DAYS
Back in the so-called "Good Old Days" things were different. If you had either diabetes or pernicious anemia your days were numbered. Since there was very little protection against the ravages of epidemic diseases the average life expectancy was about 50 years.
Today your life expectancy is about sixty-five years and it is increasing approximately six months each year because of medical progress. We are proud of our contribution to present-day medical care.

Sturdy Canadian Viewpoint

HON. LESTER B. PEARSON, Canada's minister of external affairs, is one of the few men in public life in the Dominion who have learned to give a good account of themselves in public utterances. On matters relating to his own portfolio Mr. Pearson has been particularly fortunate in his choice of the subject and its treatment. It has long been a pleasure to hear him speak or to read a reliable account of any of his addresses on external relations. As there is no department of the public service which has a higher relative importance abroad, this country is fortunate in having a sturdy Canadian in the position, where he is doing a fine job. No one abroad has much excuse for not understanding Canada's foreign policy, and Canada has not yet had to apologize to any nation for the remarks or thoughts of its minister of external affairs. Which is the way it should be.

For a small nation with relatively insignificant manpower, Canada has built up a good name in the world. Its advice has had its effect time and again in the counsels of the United Nations and in the upper brackets of international diplomacy. Its own beliefs are few and simple. It subscribes to the policies of live and let live, of strength through union, of help where help can effectively be given, and an open and unbiased approach to the understanding of all nations regardless of their differences. At home and in the counsels of the world, Canada is a middle-of-the-road nation, nor need it ever apologize for that. Its great belief in its own future has tinged its foreign relations with reasoned optimism; a stand however which does not imply the letting down of any defensive guard.

Officially and personally Mr. Pearson has given voice to this theme so often and always so effectively that Canada's foreign policy, simple as it is, is probably better known in all its relations than may at times be the case with far larger and more powerful nations. Also there is a greater unity of thought at home behind that quiet policy of working problems out than perhaps has been true of this nation at any time in the past. The result is a sound stability of attitude.

Security Leaders Convene

RIGHT welcome visitors to British Columbia this week will be several hundred delegates to the first convention on Canadian soil of the National Association of Securities Administrators. The meetings will open at Vancouver tomorrow, and at mid-week will be moved to Victoria for the balance of the session. They will be attended by securities commissioners and personnel from most of the Canadian Provinces and from some 35 States in the Union south of the border. Highlighted speakers will include the respective heads of the New York Stock Exchange, the Investment Bankers Association of America, the American Stock Exchange, and other experts drawn from a highly specialized and intricate field.

One is pleased to note that the convention will be welcomed officially on the part of the Dominion and of British Columbia by Ottawa and James Bay representatives. Premier Bennett and Attorney-General Bonner will speak to the gathering during the four-day session; as will Mr. W. P. J. O'Meara, assistant under-secretary of state for Canada. Beyond the roster of addresses will be the consideration of a draft uniform securities measure prepared by Prof. Louis Loss, of the Harvard Law School, and forming one of the central purposes of the convention. Attending the sessions will be a considerable quota of investment and securities representatives drawn by the subject and the opportunity to hear important and timely discussions.

Since the primary purpose of securities regulation is the protection of the public—sometimes from itself—here is one convention that will attract more than customary interest in the Pacific Northwest. Under modern conditions stock exchanges and investment dealers are highly self-regulated, with high standards in a most exacting calling. Public supervision of the field, however, is now universal; and it has the effect of weeding out undesirable practices. The basic problem—to free investment channels and to protect the investors at the same time—is common to all countries. The responsible nature of the contribution from the securities field itself is one of the encouraging signs of the day.

Funeral for 'Fonetics'

MANY attempts have been made on this side of the Atlantic over the years to introduce 'fonetic' spelling into the English language, with little success. One of the most persistent has been The Chicago Tribune which for several decades has sprinkled its pages with unusual spellings. Now even the stubbornly crusading Tribune, which under its late publisher Col. McCormick could never be wrong about anything, has tacitly admitted defeat. Last week the Tribune quietly announced that it was reverting to convention spelling, a decision prompted by "the desire to spare school children any needless confusion in learning to spell."

Henceforth the Tribune, bowing to a custom which proved stronger than any influence it could exert, will replace "frate" with "freight," "soder" with "solder" and so on down its long list of unorthodox spellings. The Greek ph will be restored in place of the Tribune version which puzzled the initiated with words like "sofomore" and "foto," and all that will remain of the journal's simplified system will be contractions such as "catalog" and "thru."

It is unlikely that this confession of failure would have been permitted in McCormick's day, but that it has been made posthumously is an interesting commentary on popular resistance to meddling with the language. McCormick is dead and the newspaper which he believed to be an infallible guide for Americans and the world in all things has quietly buried his phonetic spelling beside him.

Island Editors Say

A Notable Achievement

Outstanding achievement of the Sidney Legionnaires baseball club in winning the Vancouver Island championship and then adding to it the championship of British Columbia is one that should not pass unnoticed in the annals of Sidney. This is the first provincial athletic title ever to come to this little community.

Legionnaires were organized a few years ago in a modest way to promote baseball among the youth of Sidney. Saanich Peninsula branch of the Canadian Legion took the boys under its wing and financed the club. They weren't very good at first but improved steadily. Many of their most enthusiastic fans can scarcely credit the fact that they became the best nine in the province in such a short time.

The club benefited by outstanding coaching. All those assisting the boys were local men who took an interest in them and devoted hours of their time and energy to the task. Perhaps special mention should be made of Corporal George Kent, in charge of the Sidney detachment of the RCMP. He provided the real leadership for he's convinced that if boys are encouraged to expend their energy on the athletic field, they'll find no time at all for less desirable pursuits.

Tennis Tradition

Though it is incorrect to describe a tennis tournament as a social phenomenon, the truth is not being stretched too far to say that the four days of tennis at South Cowichan each year constitute one of the best summer tourist attractions of this district and Vancouver Island.

The incomparable setting of the courts, in a bower of green maples and pastures, is so rural as to shut out all thought of modernity. A steady stream of Cowichan Bay road traffic, hard on two sides of the grounds, merely enhances their charm.

The scores of tennis players who participate annually are proof of the existence of the particular appeal of South Cowichan. This district and Island should place a special asterisk in the year's V.I. sporting calendar beside this tennis event. The footnote should say: "Oldest and most charming in Canada."

Right Course

Village commissioners have taken the right course in deciding to put the proposed development along Campbell River's waterfront to the taxpayers . . . provided, of course, the commissioners are satisfied that the project is sufficiently sound to warrant the holding of a plebiscite.

The waterfront belongs to all the people of Campbell River and while our elected representatives could hand down a decision without referring to the wishes of the electors, we nevertheless believe that in a matter of this importance the feeling of the taxpayers should be secured.

Little League

Last Monday saw the wind-up of the local Little League Baseball season which has kept approximately 70 young boys interested and occupied all summer long and has produced some outstanding sport for the community. From a small beginning last year, the Little League has grown to be this city's most active sport organization and if the interest of the players, their managers and coaches and the public can be sustained, it may well prove to be the foundation for some championship adult teams in future years.

Thinking Aloud

"... of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

AS my friend approached the little fat robin it swept off the railing and flew out of sight. Where did it go? he wondered. What had it been doing before he saw it?

What surprised him most, he told me, was that he should even stop to think about the robin. I gather that like this column he goes about unseeing, oblivious to much of what is around him.

This is a strange omission. Most of us are full of curiosity. We stop if a workman pulls up a manhole cover; we gape when the fire engine goes by. We like to hear gossip about others—the spicier the better.

Yet we seldom take time to study people in the mass.

That is a pity. Only the chosen perhaps are qualified to appreciate the miracles of nature, the budding trees, the wayward clouds, the flight of robins. But any one of us should be able to find interest in looking at his fellow men.

* * *

A stroll along any city street should be an education, or at least an inspiration.

You stand at the corner, say, of Johnson and Government, or Hillside and Quadra, or any other intersection where human traffic requires guidance by colored lights. Any corner will do but naturally the more people the greater the variety.

And for once you open your eyes so that you really see.

Take this man who is moving with languid stride. He looks sad. For all we know his life has collapsed about him; or he may have a toothache. But looks are deceiving. Inside he may be as gay as the robin that flew off the railing. Perhaps this morning he fell heir to a legacy. Maybe he's preoccupied with thoughts of the new bungalow he's about to build. Yes, that's it; his sad expression comes from current building prices.

Here is another fellow; he's whistling. (Not many people now whistle in public, have you noticed?) Quite obviously life is good to him. Yet maybe he's just whistling to keep up his courage.

These two girls, now, deep in giggles and conversation. What do you suppose is on their minds? Boy friends? (What else?)

* * *

What keeps everybody going?

Have you never wondered that as you noted a crowded thoroughfare? Where do they all work? What is their home life like? That old lady crossing the street in front of you; watch how she favors her left foot. Would it be a corn that's troubling her?

There is a man standing over on the other side of the road. Look at the trousers he wears, would you, almost yellow in color. You'd never wear a pair like that; what makes him do it? You know of course why that young lady turning the corner wears a wisp of veil around her hat; that's the fashion.

But why should she have overshoes on when there's no rain?

A youth races past on a motorcycle. Where's he bound for? Duncan? Perhaps his sister is being married and he's late for the wedding. (In truth he's probably just speeding.)

Faces! They strike at you suddenly. Look at all the different combinations of noses, cheeks and lips. There can't possibly be so many variations, but there they are, right in front of your eyes. You don't see two faces exactly alike.

You turn away, pondering all these matters. So inconsequential but so important.

What a wonderful animal the human being is, so full of funny little habits, hopes, looks, fears, emotions. How interesting it would be if we had x-ray vision.

Well, perhaps not.

Perhaps birds have it. Perhaps the sight of my friend was too much for the robin. You never can tell.

B.C. Needs a Coastguard

By GEORGE NICHOLSON

ON July 30 a salmon troller was lost off Tofino and its two occupants, Ian Charles MacLeod and Kenneth Wilson, were presumed drowned.

In a letter to the Colonist which appeared last week, MacLeod's widow, who is left with two young children, is full of praise for the crew of the Tofino lifeboat who carried out a systematic day-by-day search, and the local fishermen who gave up several days' good fishing to scour the beaches.

Mrs. MacLeod is also grateful to the crew members of the planes that also took part in the search, but is a little critical of the over-all organization responsible for the air and sea rescue service.

Her letter, in part, read as follows: "Air and sea rescue, Vancouver, was contacted. They sent up one plane which picked up local observers and searched for six hours. The following day two planes were sent. These searched for four hours with no observers. (We presume this meant no local observers.) Two days elapsed, then pressure was brought to bear on air sea rescue and five planes were promised. However, before the entire search area had been covered, these planes were recalled. After days of poor co-ordination and co-operation the search was concluded."

* * *

Due allowance is made for the emotional strain which this young fisherman's widow must be undergoing at this time, but in expressing her feelings Mrs. MacLeod is speaking for every resident on the west coast of Vancouver Island who believes the much publicized—and useful at times—air and sea rescue to be a poor substitute for a properly organized coastguard service, long overdue.

Over 2,000 Canadian and American fishing boats fish salmon off the west coast of Vancouver Island for eight months of the year. Another 100 fish cod and flatfish during the winter months and a steady stream of fish-packers and tugboats ply up and down the coast all the year round.

Accidents occur frequently, and if help arrives in time it is almost invariably a United States Coast Guard cutter that comes to the stricken vessel's aid. Why? Because we have no coastguard service of our own.

* * *

Representations on the subject have repeatedly been made to Ottawa, but the answer is always the same. We are told that the closest co-operation exists between the radio stations operated by the department of transport and the navy, RCAF and RCMP. Also that in case of a shipwreck or other emergency, through a co-ordinated radio-telephone network, with an operator on duty somewhere in Vancouver on a round-the-clock basis, planes may be diverted or dispatched without delay and ships in the vicinity can be communicated with and be on the scene in a very short time.

This is known as air and sea rescue and the ships referred to include all coastal steamers, tugboats and fishing vessels; the two lifeboats already stationed on the west coast and RCMP vessels stationed at various points between Victoria and Prince Rupert; fisheries cruisers on patrol in the same waters, naval vessels based at Esquimalt and RCAF crash-boats at Sea island and Patricia bay.

* * *

The above set-up is good as far as it goes, and since its inception a few years ago it has been responsible for saving many lives. But its activities have mostly been confined to rescuing occupants of pleasure craft, fishermen in trouble on the Gulf of Georgia and nearby islands, and searching for planes lost in the inlets and coastal mountains.

Shipping men, fishermen and others familiar with the west coast maintain that this set-up is not practical on the rough waters of the open Pacific. They declare that not until one or more ships, similar to the U.S. Coast Guard cutters and equipped with towing and salvage gear, are stationed permanently somewhere on the west coast of Vancouver Island, and at least one flying boat to work with them, also based on the west coast, will Canada have an effective coastguard service.

* * *

The arguments are obvious and may be summarized as follows:

The two lifeboats stationed at Bamfield and Tofino respectively are day boats only, have no accommodation whatever and don't even carry a skiff. The RCMP boats are a little larger, but only carry a four-man crew. The fisheries cruisers are larger still, but as often as not there is not one on the west coast, except a small one at Port Alberni. Not one of these boats was built for heavy weather and neither are they equipped with towing gear, pumps or fire-fighting apparatus, which is necessary in most cases.

Naval vessels are not always available and a tug usually has a log raft or barge in tow, which it cannot leave to the mercy of the seas. A crashboat from Vancouver would be out of gas before it got half way up the coast and as these boats sit so low in the water they might never find the object of their search.

And instead of at Sea Island, the flying boat should be based at Long beach, where the RCAF already has a base and which is practically in the centre of the area where the coastguard is needed most. Neither is it practical to use the obsolete wheel-equipped Lancaster bombers from Comox, which are mostly manned by flying personnel from the prairies, who in many cases, from the air, cannot distinguish a fishboat from a floating log.

THE long and bloody war between Russia and Japan came to an official end 50 years ago, when Witte of Russia and Baron Komura of Japan reached agreement over the conference table at Portsmouth, New Hampshire.

Witte was jubilant. Russia, who lost the war, had no indemnity to pay, and she kept half of Sakhalen Island, which was at that time occupied by Japanese troops. The skilled Russian diplomat had also managed to dodge a number of other Japanese demands.

A blight had destroyed the Australian potato crop, and hundreds of tons of British Columbia potatoes were on their way across the Pacific to fill the need.

". . . The Western Canadian brewers intend to make a vigorous protest to the government against an importation of American beer, the consumption of which is fast increasing in this country.

"The object of the Canadian manufacturers is that the government compels them to make their beer from pure malt and hops, while the American brewers use corn, rice, grape sugar glucose and various other materials, which are not healthful. . . ."

Vancouver had mounted a powerful sprinkler on a street car to lay the dust, and Victoria talked of doing the same.

ALLACHE, a Tsimshian Indian, was hanged in front of Victoria's police barracks, 95 years ago, for the murder of a colored man.

"Some 300 persons (white and Indian) witnessed the hanging. The prisoner was attended during his last moment by the Rev. Mr. Cridge, and was accompanied by that gentleman to the foot of the scaffold.

"The executioner was one of the prisoners convicted of a minor offence, and sentenced to the chain-gang. He received for his services $50 and a pardon. . . .

"When the fatal moment arrived, and the jailers approached to bid him goodbye . . . Allache's tears broke out afresh, and he sobbed bitterly, regretting his crime, and alluding in very touching terms to the fact of his being young and never again beholding his native hills.

". . . The crowd behaved with the utmost decorum, and seemed to be fully impressed with the awful solemnity of the scene."

The Packsack

Of GREGORY CLARK

IN protest against a Packsack that appeared a few days ago making fun of the residents of small villages around which summer resorts cluster, I have a letter from a well-known village that fills the bill exactly. The Packsack in question mentioned that it was harder to get a job of work done at a summer resort than in cities, and the reason for it was the eternal good nature of small villagers who hadn't the heart to turn down a city slicker who wanted a new wharf or a flag pole; and therefore soon loaded themselves up with ten times more jobs than they could possibly perform in any summer season.

"One thing you forget," writes our villager. "Summer is summer to us permanent residents of summer resorts just the same as it is to you visitors. We feel the same desire for a summer holiday as you city dwellers. Don't think summer lingers any longer at a summer resort than it does anywhere else.

"We see summer coming in, exactly as you do. We've worked all winter, as you have, only in sawmill and lumber camp, on highway building and power lines; we've built cottages, boats, punts. We've labored all winter in service garages and operating snow plows, installing drains. We have clerked in stores, run post offices, driven trucks. What makes you think that we hibernate all winter, like bears, and come out only to serve you city folk who come swarming all over the place to ruin our summer?

"No, sir. We want our share of summer too. We've earned it all fall, winter and spring, often in much worse circumstances than you earned your vacation. Yet because I can swing an axe or mend a pump or string a wire, you seem to think it is my duty to society, the minute you arrive at your cottage, that I should immediately go to work for you.

"Well, in past years, I must say my good nature got the better of me. But this past summer I thought you would like to know I haven't done one tap of work for anybody. I have just taken a good summer holiday, fishing, loafing, swimming. And I can well imagine the indignation of fat ladies and fat gentlemen sitting on their verandas seeing me dawdling past in my rowboat, at the thought of a local man being so infernally idle."

The Packsack is sorry it missed this angle, which, after all, is the best angle of all.

Letters to the Editor

Breach of Faith

It is to be hoped that public opinion will be strong enough to stop the B.C. Power Commission from proceeding with their plans to raise the natural level of Buttle lake.

The powerful articles in the Colonist by Roderick Haig-Brown should surely alert the people sufficiently to make vigorous protests against this violation of their park.

It is difficult for myself, and presumably the average citizen, to understand how the provincial government could possibly sanction any such action, Strathcona park having been put aside for the use and recreation of the people for all time—all commercial interests notwithstanding.

We should respect and uphold our government, but a breach of faith of this nature, if continued with, will create doubts in the minds of all good citizens.

ALBERT R. DAVIDSON.

Strathcona

This is to congratulate the Colonist on featuring a number of most informative articles by Roderick Haig-Brown on "Save Strathcona park."

This park, with its Buttle lake, was set aside for all time as a provincial recreation area and it would be just as wrong in principle to infringe on Beacon Hill or Stanley parks.

Yes—additional power is required on Vancouver Island, but anyway it is planned to bring in electricity from the Mainland, while on the horizon are seen other means by which electricity will be procured in the future.

Thus to damage Strathcona park seems quite unjustified from every angle. An accessible and outstanding recreational area of this nature should prove a tremendous asset in the years to come, when a very large population could be expected in the Pacific Coast region.

Anyway Mr. Haig-Brown considers the damming of Upper Campbell lake quite sound, but not to the height now planned.

Our provincial government seems to have given a good account of themselves in many ways, and it is hoped on principle, that they will not permit Strathcona park to be spoilt in any way.

'Coons and Cats

In his letter in the Colonist of Aug. 26, Mr. Bentley tries most desperately to whitewash a reported act of cruelty which has raised a public outcry. He blames the raccoon for being a predator and the dog for being a trained killer.

He even drags in our old friend felix domesticus who is invariably cited as a horrible example of cruelty when any of the hunting fraternity are disturbed by the weight of public criticism and are looking around for a convenient and preferably dumb "whipping boy". Of course cats, dogs and raccoons should know better and it is unfortunate that, according to Mr. Bentley, such an inoffensive, well-meaning human being should be involved in such a controversy.

Save the Park

Members of the Victoria Naturalist Society are quite right in protesting any desecration of Buttle lake, Strathcona park.

The writer has long felt convinced that the only way to stir public opinion in favor of saving the park would be construction of a good road direct to the lake, free from any control by the B.C. Power Commission or private interests.

This fight to save Buttle lake will not have been in vain if the realization sinks in that there are more forms of "progress" than just indusrial exploitation.

Buttle Lake

Your caption in today's paper "Bennett defends project" in which the premier is quoted as stating "I am not a dictator . . . people want you to be a dictator when it is in their interest." Mr. Bennett is in his present position to defend and achieve the "interests" of the people of British Columbia; he is not expected to dictate but to carry out unanimous decisions.

The project involving Buttle lake and Strathcona park has never been upheld by British Columbians, and all protests have been of no avail in the face of an ever-advancing industrial project. I feel sorry for "us" and for the inevitable paucity of parkland seclusions.

With what little we personally had we ourselves could not save Pemberton Woods, or even a few young conifers on our boulevard, planted four years ago. Rows of houses endlessly repeated seems to be the fever, yet souls are dying for want of the greensward, and for escape, if only by illusion from the press of city life.

Mr. Roderick Haig-Brown did his expending utmost, and some of us believed he might make a twin for B.C.'s future. Alas!

"Bobby" Hats

One does not have to travel any further than Calgary, Alta., to see "Bobby" hats or helmets being worn by the city police. At least they were about five years ago when I left and I expect they still are, and fur hats in Winter.

It would be interesting to know how many Canadian cities use Bobby hats. It would be rediculous and make a spectacle of a grand force if anybody but the police wore them, as someone suggested.

Also, isn't the Canadian flag, a Union Jack in the top corner with a maple leaf below. I seem to remember serving in both wars under such a flag.

No "Spree"

On the front page of today's Colonist there was a Reuters dispatch covering the shooting affray by an American airman in the south of England.

The caption writer calls it a "spree;" don't you think tragedy would be better? If his son had been shot down in cold blood would he have described it as a "spree"?

Quite recently, he described the commissionaries who are now handling the parking meters as "hounds." They have been already insulted enough by the labor people who called them scabs, without "heaping coals. . . ."

A Canadian Culture

About a Canadian flag and a Canadian cultre. Personally I think we shall have neither as long as Canada is two countries, one speaking more or less English, the other speaking more or less French . . . nor as long as we allow the French to outvote us.

It seems also that until all newspapers in any language but English are banned, and the whole country speaks at least something like English, we cannot expect a distinct Canadian culture.

Unique Engine Off Secret List

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal scientists Friday took the wraps off a new jet engine development which can double the rate of climb of an interceptor plane or give an added burst of blazing speed to jet fighters.

Product of four years of research and testing believed to be unique, the top-secret device was unveiled at Uplands airport here to reporters and cameramen.

Simply described, it is an improvement on the usual jet engine afterburners which burn additional fuel in the engine tailpipe to attain greater speed.

They Wait and Also Serve

Sea-going waitresses on coastal steamers that ply the Victoria run enjoy work on the bounding main after they find their sea legs. This charming trio—from left, Terry Kern, Margaret Koroluk and Muriel Glasby, all of Vancouver—have lost count of the thousands of cups of coffee they have poured during a busy tourist season.

Waitresses with a Rolling Gait Settle for Life on Ocean Waves

BY IAN MACDONALD

Trying to serve up food while struggling to keep the stomach down is not one of the easier tricks, as trim Terry Kern of Vancouver learned a few months ago.

Often she would gladly have quit during her first week as a sea-going waitress, but now she's a seasoned mariner with a saucy gait.

Getting used to the rolling waves, the food fads of tourists and innumerable "where are we now?" questions are a few of the occupational hazards of the girls who satisfy the inner man, woman and child aboard coastal steamers.

Terry is one of 12 girls who operate the coffee shop aboard the CPR's Princess Marguerite.

It is an international staff that plies the Vancouver-Victoria-Seattle route. Included are an Australian, New Zealander, Dane, Austrian and Estonian, with Scots-born chief steward David Mitchell keeping a canny eye on things.

The girls met when the Marguerite went into summer service April 24 and will work as a team until Sept. 24 when the service is discontinued.

All except Terry, who returns to school next week, the girls will be assigned to other boats.

On one voyage this season they served 1,680 people in the 68-seat coffee shop.

Another veteran is Margaret Koroluk, of Vancouver, who has been a salt-water waitress for nine years and has sailed with Mr. Mitchell since the Marguerite went into summer service in 1949.

"Marmalade on sausages!" says Muriel Glasby with a sad shake of her head.

Muriel is a transplanted Australian from Brisbane who has been in Canada for 14 months and on the boats for 12.

She never ceases to wonder at the peculiar eating habits of some United States tourists.

"Pie and ice cream for breakfast" is another dish that never fails to amuse her.

She and Terry agree that another fascination of the job is the fact that "you run into all sorts of people."

And, as their landlubber counterparts agree, American travellers are more generous in the tipping department than their Canadian customers.

The heavy summer trade drops off after Labor Day and the more modern ships are laid up for the winter.

But regardless of the boat or the route, the girls say they like their jobs and seem to have the sea in their blood.

Some have rolling walks, but so far nobody's been tattooed.

Ottawa Gets Set For Vital Talks

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA — Federal cabinet ministers will start trooping back to Ottawa in the coming week like a group of reluctant schoolboys to prepare for the Dominion-provincial conference opening Oct. 3.

A meeting of the cabinet has been scheduled for Thursday and while nothing spectacular is expected to emerge, the urgent question will be the conference with the provincial premiers in a little over a month's time. The cabinet has met only once since the end of the last session of parliament on July 28 and a mass of routine business is awaiting the attention of the holidaying ministers.

At the meeting last week, ministers considered a draft of a proposed agreement between the federal government and the provinces which is being communicated to the provinces in advance of the October gathering. The agreement suggested is being laid before the premiers for their comments and it could serve as a working basis when they arrive here to talk details.

WORK OF THREE

The draft agreement appears to be the work of three members of the government — Finance Minister Walter Harris, Labor Minister Milton Gregg and Health and Welfare Minister Paul Martin, in addition to the prime minister.

The Thursday cabinet meeting is expected to have a large attendance, larger than last week when only a handful of ministers attended. Ministers like Trade and Commerce Minister C. D. Howe and Transport Minister George Marler are breaking their vacations to attend. It is quite obvious that matters of only top priority would bring them back at this time.

Parliament Bans Whipping

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — The council of states, the upper house of India's Parliament, Thursday passed a bill to abolish whipping as a punishment. The bill now goes to the lower house for consideration.

A PADRE IN PRINT

By REV. WILLIAM HILLS

It is somewhat difficult to peck out these lines on the typewriter, for I have thoughts of holiday in my head. Not a long vacation, mind you, but just a change of scenery and atmosphere.

That, after all, is what a holiday is—a change.

Some people, however, spend scads of money just to get the same kind of things far away that they get in much better fashion at home.

No man in his right senses would trade Vancouver Island or the hinterland of B.C. at this time of the year for any other spot.

Some of my friends have urged me to take a vacation back east. Why? If I don't miss my guess they have "exhibition weather" there just now and that means being able to fry eggs on the sidewalks.

I do not crave for the luxury of being forced to sleep in the altogether simply because the weight of a cotton sheet is agony to the flesh!

Having lived in Toronto, I know whereof I speak.

Speaking of holidays, I noticed in last week's Vancouver press that the Archdeacon of Comox (who is my good friend the Rector of Nanaimo) had grumbled to his local Rotary Club about George Warren's sign: "Follow the birds to Victoria."

He objected to the fact that some 400 miles south of the Straits of Juan de Fuca, he had come across this sign.

He thought that it should have said something about Nanaimo and the rest of the Island.

Whistle for Itself

Judging from the stream of steamers which ply to that Hub city, I should have thought that Nanaimo could whistle for itself.

Surely it is adding insult to injury to expect that the Victoria Travel Bureau should underwrite a further subtraction of the tourist flow from the inner harbor.

We'll just leave that up to the CPR and the Black Ball Ferry lines.

* * *

But, alas, by the time you read this, I shall, like Douglas MacArthur, have returned.

However, I shall bring back with me the refreshment of the Okanagan and the bite of the mosquitoes about Kamloops. I shall have tested Mr. Gaglardi's highways in the Fraser Canyon and evaded the political shenanigans on the Cariboo trail.

Of one thing I am sure. I shall have returned to Victoria happy and proud that my work lies in this Pacific Northwest and in this capital city of Victoria, with not one bit of envy for Archdeacon Hendy and the good work he does in Nanaimo, or for my sophisticated Eastern confreres who think that, on this Pacific coast, we all cry "Ya-hoo!" and sport ourselves in eagle feathers and a loin cloth.

Tourists Get Shots?

OTTAWA (BUP) — A U.S. news magazine report that Americans were flocking across the border for Salk anti-polio vaccine shots "just doesn't make sense," a health department spokesman said Saturday.

The magazine said Americans were coming to Canada because "Canada has more than enough" of the vaccine and because "rightly or wrongly they consider it safer."

Fight Industry . . . . . . In Loveliest City

Victoria Envisioned as Canada's Cultural Centre

By RICHARD L. THOMAS
Colonist London Correspondent

LONDON—An important Toronto business man recommends that Victoria forget all about heavy industry and concentrate on becoming the cultural capital of Canada.

In the course of an interview that started when I tried to find out how many British companies were planning [illegible] ment on Vancouver island—and if not, why not—this business man urged Victorians to "send a clean wind blowing through Canadian cultural life."

Because of the controversial aspects of his statements and the fact that he does business in Victoria, the man asked to remain anonymous. He was in Britain in connection with British developments in Canada.

This is what he had to say:

"If you want to do Victoria a good turn, tell them to forget all about industry—at least big industry. Let them keep to the smaller stuff founded on local materials and light stuff which is not affected by heavy freight charges to the mainland.

This will help them along and it'll make you popular with that section of the community which wants to keep Victoria what it is—the most beautiful city in Canada and the loveliest place to live on this earth as far as I know.

But it will make you confoundedly unpopular with the bright boys of the community who are all out for drive and enterprise. There are plenty of them.

Now I'll tell you something. These fellows are progressive the wrong way. Progress is not all industrial, and although factories are my life, I'll tell you this—Victoria framed against a skyline of belching chimneys—or concrete pillboxes for atom piles—would be civic murder.

It is a merciful providence that they are spared big industry. We want one city in Canada which is a monument not to man's ingenuity but man's enjoyment of lovely things.

Now this is what you want to plug. Try and get into the heads of Victorians—all of them—that they have a city which can be still the most beautiful in Canada and yet have a progressiveness which will make it the envy of the rest of the country. They should make it the cultural centre of Canada and the northwest of the United States and, believe me, they could do it if they set their minds to it.

They want a festival like the Edinburgh Festival—they should go after an opera house, build a symphony orchestra determined to beat Toronto and a ballet which would keep Winnipeg guessing.

Victoria is a city of spirit and they should develop it that way. There is work to be done for a century ahead and it could be one of the greatest adventures of Canadian life—and I'll tell you this, I think Victoria could make it pay. They would attract more and more visitors and they in turn would give more employment than factories."

Festivals of opera, drama and ballet—housed in proper buildings and presented and performed by people who knew their jobs, coupled with a permanent symphony orchestra and a repertory theatre, would make Victoria the cultural hub of Canada.

It would intensify the tourist business and it would attract smaller industries which could be accommodated within the existing [illegible] ballet shoes, scenic designers and painters and maybe even a music publisher and recording company.

A temple of the arts is needed in which a concert hall auditorium, an opera house, a repertory theatre could be combined, supported by shops, offices and a cinema. In time it would pay direct dividends, but from the start it would pay indirect dividends.

You just tell them to get on with it. Half the town will bless you and it could be that the other half will think there may be something in it. When that happens in Victoria they have a habit of getting things done.

Gallery Plans Ambitious Year

First Yugoslav paintings to be shown in Canada will be the high point of the exhibition year, from mid-September to next July, at the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria.

Curator Colin Graham has announced that two exhibitions [illegible] capitals of Europe will be shown, although date of display is not yet known.

One is a survey of 20th century painting in Yugoslavia, and the other is a series of exact copies of medieval Yugoslav frescoes, made in life size by French craftsmen and shown recently at London's Tate Gallery.

Mr. Graham said the gallery here is hoping to arrange the Canadian tour of the shows beginning from Victoria.

Works of six living Edinburgh painters and paintings by Japanese children will be seen in late October. A survey of the work of Britain's leading water color painters will go on display in March.

An unusual show in mid-May will contain actual tapestries dating back to the middle ages.

Island exhibitions include one-man shows by Edward Goodall, the Victoria illustrator and painter, and Herbert Siebner, who came here from West Berlin in 1953. These exhibitions will be followed by the 15th international salon of photography of the Victoria Camera Club, which opens Nov. 30.

Gallery season opens Sept. 13 when the gallery and the Indian Arts and Welfare Society sponsor a showing of 50 examples of the work of present-day Alaskan Indians.

Second show contains 30 works, mostly by Eastern Canadian painters, from the private collection of Mrs. Maud Brown of Ottawa. The widow of the late Eric Brown, director of Canada's National Gallery for many years, she has sent the exhibition to the gallery as a permanent loan.

Third show contains 60 examples of Chinese painting in color facsimile, ranging back 2,000 years. This display was prepared by UNESCO for world tour.

Big Attraction Casts Spell

By ROY PARRETT

Will little Gloria Lockerman try for $32,000? That is the question being asked by 35,000,000 TV viewers this week.

The answer will come on KTNT-TV Tuesday night at 10 when the champion speller from Baltimore appears on the dramatic "$64,000 Question" program.

Last week the 12-year-old Negro girl piled up her television quiz show earnings to $16,000 by spelling off this entire sentence:

"The belligerent astigmatic anthropologist annihilated innumerous chrysanthemums."

On Tuesday's show she will have the option of accepting a trust fund for $16,000 or doubling that amount by another spelling feat. If she fails to spell the tricky words she loses her fortune but settles for an expensive convertible which will be placed in trust in her name.

It was a twist of fate which landed the 12-year-old spelling champ on the "$64,000 Question." She was auditioning for another quiz show, "The Quiz Kids," which the producers of the $64,000 Question" planned to put on TV, and so impressed officials that they switched her to the big money show. It was a lucky switch. In a few weeks Gloria has become America's No. 1 personality.

There is more good news for television viewers who like to watch late movies. KING-TV has purchased "The Fabulous Forty" motion picture package for fall and winter showing.

Described as the finest group of feature films for first-run television showings, the films represent the top talent in the world and cost more than $77,000,000 to produce.

None of these full-length films has been seen on television. They include "Breaking the Sound Barrier," "Man of Evil," "Tales of Hoffman," "The Great Gilbert and Sullivan," "Pickwick Papers," and "A Letter to Three Husbands."

The popular feature "The Loretta Young Show" returns to local screens at 10 tonight on Channel 4 with film and stage actress Rosalind Russell as hostess. Philip Thaxter and Robert Creston will co-star in "Fear Me Not," the opening drama in the series.

Miss Young, a leading film actress since silent film days, is recuperating from her recent serious illness which has necessitated several months of hospitalization. Many of Hollywood's leading figures will stand in for the charming actress as host and hostess on the half-hour dramatic programs.

Miss Russell will be seen in a pinch-hitting role tonight and on Sep. 4. Others scheduled to MC the program are Joseph Cotton, Dinah Shore, Barbara Stanwyck, John Wayne, Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz, Ann Sothern, Irene Dunne, Ben Jonson, Merle Oberon and many other outstanding personalities.

Tonight's drama written by Jean Legat is a story of a woman left alone in a desolate station on Cape Cod and her encounter with an escapee from a mental sanitorium.

In response to numerous requests Medic again presents "Flash of Darkness' the story of the destruction of a major city by an H-bomb, Monday night at 10 on Channel 4. The high-powered drama deals with the efforts of doctors and civil-defence people following an H-bomb attack and their attempts to bring order out of chaos in spite of the fact that they must work with inadequate preparation and supplies.

Tuesday night's CBS documentary "The Search" also deals with a medical problem as television viewers watch demonstrations of brain-waves, electric shock treatments and truth serum, in its second report on psychiatric care.

World concert artists featured on CBUT Tuesday night at 7.30 include pianist Arthur Rubinstein, violinist Jascha Heifetz, contralto Marian Anderson, 'cellist Gregor Piatigorsky, tenor Jan Pearce and soprano Nadine Connor.

A delayed telecast of last Thursday's Promenade Symphony Concert at Toronto is scheduled for presentation on CBUT Thursday at 8.30. Guest conductor will be Charles Houdret with pianist Elaine Bishenden as soloist. The program will feature the music of Rimsky-Korsakov and piano concerto by Miss Bishenden.

Queen of Stage

HELEN HAYES

Queen Talking Reunion

CANNES, France (NANA)—Narriman Sadek, better known as the ex-wife of ex-king Farouk, is talking about a reunion with the portly Egyptian—if he'll make the "first move."

The former queen of Egypt is apparently devoting fond thoughts to Farouk during lulls in the whirling social life she has taken up on the Riviera.

Reporting that a Narriman-Farouk rematch is well within the range of possibility—at least according to Narriman—Andre Chardonnes, her handsome 29-year-old private secretary, stressed that Farouk will have to make the suggestion.

Broadway Star Helen Hayes Marks Golden Anniversary

NEW YORK (AP) — Stage star Helen Hayes, despite herself, is about to celebrate 50 years in show business.

"Well, gee," she comments with devastating brevity when asked about the event.

The little-girl phrase is, however, untouched with wonderment. Queen Helen is not a woman impressed with dates, anniversaries and the slippings of fame.

But because the theater is a notably sentimental world, Miss Hayes is aware great hoopla is inevitable for a golden anniversary.

The star, whose gamut of roles extend from Pollyanna to Queen Victoria, was talking in her dressing room at the Anta Theater.

There, along with Mary Martin and a notable cast, she is currently appearing in a three-week revivial of "The Skin of Our Teeth' which has already become one of Broadway's most memorable events.

When the run is finished Miss Hayes intends "very definitely" to carry out a program she has set of easing up on professional commitments and taking more time for sewing, gardening and all the other pleasantries of domesticity at the suburban Nyack home where she is simply the wife of Charles MacArthur, playwright.

Her husband and Anita Loos are currently working on "Glory Be," a drama about the late Lady Medel, a renowned art collector. Miss Hayes may appear in it later this season.

She denies published reports that a "special production" is planned to celebrate her 50th theater year which officially begins the first of January.

Already, however, the American Theater Wing, of which she is president, has persuaded Miss Hayes to permit a golden anniversary ball here in her honor on Dec. 30. It seems inevitable that other events will follow.

The Hayes career, she recalls when pressed, began in her native Washington when she was six years old and the dancing school which she attended gave a public show.

"I think Sophie Tucker, Variety (theatrical trade journal) and I are the only people in show business that have been around 50 years,' she adds.

Concert Season Here This Winter Will Be Sparkling

Anna Russell, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Mozart, Sibelius, Shakespeare and the Black Hills passion play [illegible] part of a long list of outstanding entertainment events coming to Victoria in the 1955-56 season.

There are seven items on the Famous Artists' calendar, eight pairs of concerts by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, an appearance by the Stratford, Ont. players, and many more programs for all tastes.

For its season at the Royal Theatre, Famous Artists will begin with the Santa Cecilia Choir of Rome Oct. 25. In January, violinist Joseph Szigeti appears on the 16th and the Ballet Russe gives two performances on the 25th.

Miss Russell returns March 5, one week before pianist Leonard Pennario. Jan Peerce sings in April (the date is not set), and the Northwest Grand Opera company will present "Tosca" late in the season.

SYMPHONY CONCERTS

Victoria Symphony Orchestra, whose tentative program was published in The Daily Colonist Thursday, will commemorate the 90th birthday of Sibelius and the bicentennial of Mozart's birth with four works by each composer.

Guest artists with conductor Hans Gruber will be pianists Lloyd Powell, Glenn Gould and John Knight and violinist Clifford Evens. Mr. Evens and Dr. Ettore Mazzoleni will be guest conductors, and first concerts are Oct. 2 and 3, at the Royal.

The symphony society and the Southern Vancouver Island Drama Festival are bringing the Stratford Players to the Royal Jan. 21. Matinee performance is expected to be "Taming of the Shrew," with "Macbeth" as the evening play.

Theatre-in-the-round and radio work are being considered by the Victoria Theatre Guild, which will present six plays at Langham Court Theatre.

Replacement will be "Two Dozen Red Roses," an Italian comedy, and its dates are Nov. 5 to 12. Otherwise, VTG program already announced is unchanged.

The guild still needs $400 toward meeting the $750 cost of rewiring the theatre. Donations may be sent to Box 1061, Victoria.

Appearing for the first time in Victoria, the Black Hills passion play will be seen at the Memorial Arena, Dec. 8, 9 and 10. Josef Meier takes the leading role.

Ice Capades comes to the arena Jan. 17 to 21. "Capades" is the big brother of Ice Cycles.

As many as 15 orchestras, including one from Port Angeles, will take part in the annual Parade of Bands at Crystal Garden, Oct. 4.

Mrs. Myrtle Schules, secretary of the now dormant Nanaimo junior band, announced today that an attempt is being made to revive the group. It was disbanded three years ago after operating for four years. Lack of interest and other diversions was blamed for break-up. The band has more than $2,000 in uniforms in moth balls and it is hoped to revive interest this winter with the help of other organizations.

Lucky for Arion Club

Group Sings Paen to No. 13

Continuing a series on Victoria theatrical and singing groups, this article tells of an organization well-versed in both fields.

By H. B. BINNY

YOUNG KENT OF 1894

HERBERT KENT OF TODAY

Thirteen has been proven to be a lucky number for the Arion Club of Victoria, one of the oldest male singing clubs on the Pacific coast.

Thirteen persons were present at the first meeting of the group, a committee session held one day after interested parties were notified of the club on Feb. 15, 1893.

Idea of the club was reached the previous year and once the decision to organize was taken, implementation proved a model of rapidity.

First general meeting was Feb. 20; first concert May 20; and Sir Mathew Begbie was elected first president at a further general meeting June 19, all in 1893.

PRIME MOVER

The meeting Feb. 15 was held in the offices of Yates and Joy in the building immediately behind the head office of the Bank of Montreal. William Greig, a prime mover in formation of the club, was elected first conductor.

Herbert Kent, a nonegenarian who is the only living charter member, was elected vice-president. During the ensuing 30 years, he missed only one concert, or so he told a Rotary luncheon in 1923—but he did not give the reason.

First "Mikado" of the club in 1894, Mr. Kent retired this year after 62 years of active service and active interest.

In 1898, the Arion Club sang at the opening of the new Legislative Buildings. In 1912, the club took part in festivities attendant upon the visit of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught. Until about 1930, an open-air concert was given every year at the buildings.

AIMS STATED

The aim of the Arion Club has always been, in the words of the by-laws, "the study of music for male voices and also for the culture and development of a refined musical taste in its members."

All this may sound rather lofty, but the results in the form of community service have been extremely beneficial. The club is not primarily competitive, despite the consistently high standards attained in musical festivals. Concerts are given at the Veterans' hospital quite regularly and the club is to sing at the opening of Lansdowne Junior High school this year.

Early records state very simply that the organization "shall be known as the Arion Club" without providing any reason. The age of fable, however, supplies reason enough.

SUNDRY ADVENTURES

In Greek mythology, Arion was a musician of Corinth, somewhat resembling in his attributes the famous Orpheus, although he was not a god. Arion had sundry adventures, not now of importance, but his music is chronicled as having "drawn round him the inhabitants of the deep to listen."

The club which bears his name has, for some 63 years, "drawn round them the inhabitants of Victoria to listen."

Two members of long standing are Frank Sehl and W. H. Binns, Victoria residents whose membership goes back to early this century. Members who achieved no little fame as soloists are Stanley Martin, A. T. Goward and Tom Kelway.

Today the club has about 35 members and, with the approach of the concert season, will be looking for more. Conductor is Arthur Lewis, president is Dirk Van Maanen and vice-president is Charles Ulch.

Puts Foot In It

GALESBURG, Ill. (AP)—An unidentified sailor washed his socks aboard the Burlington Railroad's American Royal Zephyr, draped them on a coat hanger and hung it on a convenient rope running through the train.

The wash was heavy enough to cut off the train's communication system as the train was to leave Galesburg. A 30-minute search led the conductor to the sailor's berth where the wash hung from the signal rope.

Do not allow the child to form the habit of dropping the soap into the bottom of the bath tub. It is extravagant, and there is also the danger of slipping on it.

Free Concerts Slated

Victoria Symphony Orchestra will give a free concert in Beacon Hill park the afternoon of September 11.

Concert is made possible by a trust fund which receives one cent for every record sold in North America — whether Hit Parade or Handel.

Conductor Hans Gruber will lead the 58-member symphony in such selections as Strauss waltzes, Wagner's "Rienzi" overture, music from "Oklahoma!" and Tschaikowsky's "Marche Slav."

BAND CONCERT TOO

There will be a free concert in the park at 3 p.m. today, too — as a result of the same plan. This time music will be played by the 29-piece Musicians' Union band conducted by Dr. George Green.

Music will be by Strauss, Offenbach, Friml, Ketelbey, Kern, Romberg and Leroy Anderson, with the addition of a medley of three American folk songs.

The "pennies" from record sales have gone into the Music Performance Trust Fund since its establishment in 1948 by the United States government, which also administers the fund. All monies are used to pay musicians who give concerts which otherwise would have to bear an admission charge, or which would not take place.

GIGANTIC FUND

An idea of the size of the fund may be obtained from the fact that 187,084,098 recordings were sold in 1954. Their retail value is $190,000,000, of which $4,000,000 is wages to musicians.

In Victoria, although practically no records are made, the union receives a share of the fund. Last year, $1,600 was spent on 25 engagements at the Solarium, Veterans' Hospital, YWCA, St. Joseph's Villa, Royal Roads, Institute for the Blind, Victoria Nursing Home and other institutions.

EARLY WINDOWS

Some of the finest examples of stained glass belong to the 13th and 14th centuries.

Film of Best-Selling Novel Tipped as Award Winner

BY BRUCE LOWTHER

"Not As a Stranger," the medical epic already being touted as the leading contender for Academy Award honors this year, comes to Victoria's Odeon theatre Friday.

At $10,000,000, the film version of the Morton Thompson best-seller cost United Artists twice as much as any other picture it has ever produced.

It's one of those two-hour films and contains in Robert Mitchum and Frank Sinatra the actors most in demand in Hollywood today. A "name" cast also includes Olivia de Havilland, Gloria Grahame, Charles Bickford and Broderick Crawford.

Publicity cost of "Stranger" alone was $1,300,000, but it has been worth it. In a dozen major cities in Canada and the United States, the film is doing 260 per cent of average business. The Seattle figure is an amazing 450 per cent of average.

"Stranger" is expected to fill the Odeon, but it must do well to beat "The Private War of Major Benson," which Elliott Brown said did the best opening-day business at his theatre in four months.

LOCAL ACTOR

Ronald Wilson, 26-year-old ex-Victorian, can be seen in another excellent film here—"The Dam Busters" at the Capitol.

On graduation from extra type roles, Wilson portrays an Australian pilot in the big RAF raid. Stars are Richard Todd and Michael Redgrave.

* * *

The 40-year-old chairman of McGill University's instrumental department, Alexander Brott, will be the first Canadian composer-conducter to lead a London "prom" concret when he appears Sept. 12 with Sir Malcolm Sargent and Dame Myra Hess.

RONALD WILSON

Brott will conduct his own composition, "Royal Tribute," and will also lead the BBC symphony for home and overseas programs.

Boy Scout Audiences Watch 'Girlie Shows'

TORONTO (CP) — Hiram McCallum, general manager of the Canadian National Exhibition, today promised a full-scale investigation into reports that Boy Scouts under 18 were admitted to "girlie shows" on the midway.

"I am terribly sorry to hear this," he said, "and if we discover any wrongdoing we'll immediately correct it."

Nearly 10,000 scouts attending the World Scout Jamboree at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., were at the CNE Friday for opening-day ceremonies. Many were observed visiting "girlie" shows on the midway.

It was reported that the half-hour shows, described as "risque and spicy" by the barkers, were performed before an audience consisting mainly of scouts. The youngsters, many as young as 12, walked through the doors unhampered by ticket-takers.

One doorman questioned about the sign "No persons under 18 admitteb," laughed and said: "That should mean 18 months."

Perpetual Motion Secret for Sale

PRESCOTT, Ont. (BUP)—Arnold Banick defied the world's best authorities yesterday and said he had licked perpetual motion. He offered to prove it for $50,000.

The 37-year-old construction superintendent advertised a partnership in a project which the textbooks say is impossible. He's looking for somebody willing to put up $50,000 for a half interest in a "perpetual motion machine" he claims to have invented.

Banick, who has been intrigued since boyhood by the concept of perpetual motion and whose father and brother have made it a lifelong hobby, said his project was still on paper.

He now needs capital to build a working model and finance patents. Because the scheme is such a simple one, he added, he must find a serious investor before discussing the project's workings.

"But I can prove on paper that it positively will work."

"I know a lot of people will think I'm crazy, but the Wright brothers were called crazy in their time. And I remember my high school chemistry teacher telling me the atom would never be split," he said.

Jobs Waiting

Business School Stresses Detail

Even the most technical aspects of business training are stressed in the business schools of Vancouver Island, such as the Sprott-Shaw school at 1012 Douglas street.

In addition to recognized courses of stenography, business administration, accountancy and other branches of commercial training, specialized courses such as speed writing and salesmanship are offered at Sprott-Shaw.

The school, which was established in 1912, gives students day or night classes and maintains an advisory service which discusses with prospective students the best courses for them.

There is individual instruction from fully qualified and carefully selected teachers, who endeavor to provide highest standards and most modern methods of business training.

Sprott-Shaw is a member of the Business Educators Association of Canada, a Dominion-wide organization. It is also affiliated with the Western School of Commerce in Vancouver.

Employers are quick to snap up graduates from the school. There are applications and offers of employment waiting for most students when their courses are completed.

Free employment services offered to graduates of the Sprott-Shaw school here and the commerce school in Vancouver find positions for students in both cities.

Enrollment Increasing At Malvern

One of the many private schools on Vancouver Island patterned after the public schools of Great Britain, Malvern House school now has many times its original enrollment of eight boys in September, 1923.

The school, situated at 1024 Richmond, was started by G. A. Emmerson. By 1938, enrollment has grown to a point where accommodation became taxed.

It was necessary to use the entire school building for classrooms and a new residence for boarders was built. A gymnasium was added to round out the physical training program, which includes soccer, cricket, basketball and other games in which every boy is encouraged to take part.

The staff consists of five masters, each one specializing in his own subjects.

The school attempts to give its boys a solid foundation in education similar to that of public schools in Britain, with adaptations necessary to emphasize the building of character through self-reliance, independence of thought and consideration for others.

Defence Training Resumes Sept. 12

Civil defence training will resume Sept. 12, with emphasis on first aid, Roger Peachey, co-ordinator of the Greater Victoria civil defence board, said yesterday. Classes are at headquarters, 622 Cormoran.

Careless Driving Charge Denied

A 33-year-old Langford truck driver whose vehicle narrowly missed smashing into the side of a Victoria-bound train in Colwood Aug. 11 pleaded not guilty to a charge of careless driving in RCMP court at Colwood yesterday.

William Joseph Milne, Carlow road, was remanded for one week by Magistrate A. I. Thomas.

Milne escaped with a severe shaking and a grazed hand when the heavily-loaded logging truck overturned less than 15 feet from the railway tracks at Colwood corner.

Allan Stanley Daykin, Granville avenue, Saanich, was fined a total of $35 after he pleaded guilty to two charges—careless driving and lack of a firearms permit.

X-Rays Held More Harm To Mankind than A-Tests

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—A radiation expert claims medical use of x-ray probably is doing more harm to future generations through radiation damage than atomic tests.

The expert, Dr. O. H. Frankel, chief of the division of plant industry of the Australian council for scientific and industrial research, said "radiation tests made throughout the United States following atomic tests have proved that damage to human genes is practically negligible."

On the other hand, much x-ray equipment was being used in various clinics today, particularly in gynaecology and TB diagnosis.

"It is generally feared that the reproductive organs of many patients being x-rayed are not sufficiently shielded from radiation.

"As a result human heredity is being damaged. But it may take many generations before the full effects of this damage will be known."

Officer Hero Once Again

A Victoria naval officer made his second water rescue in recent years Friday night when he saved a boy who fell 20 feet from a jetty into Vancouver harbor from drowning.

Lieut. Robert J. Paul, 3650 Craigmiller, first officer of HMCS Jonquiere, which was moored next to the jetty, plunged in after the boy when he saw him fall from his bicycle into the water.

The Esquimalt-based frigate carried navy personnel to Vancouver to take part in the Pacific National Exhibition.

As a commissioned gunner aboard HMCS Athabaskan after the ship's return from Far Eastern duty, Lieut. Paul jumped into icy Juan de Fuca strait to pull to safety a crew member who had lost his footing and fallen into the water.

Kwong Leads Esks To 29-12 Victory Over Shaky Lions

HOW THEY STAND

	W	L	GF	GA	Pts
Edmonton	3	0	88	31	6
Saskatchewan	2	0	48	19	4
British Columbia	1	1	36	37	2
Winnipeg	0	2	16	30	0
Calgary	0	3	30	58	0

Last night's scores: Regina 29 at Calgary 12; Vancouver 12 at Edmonton 29.

Next games, Monday: Regina at Vancouver, Calgary at Winnipeg.

EDMONTON (BUP) — Fullback Normie Kwong romped for three touchdowns last night to lead the Edmonton Eskimos to a 29-12 victory over the revamped B.C. Lions in a WIFU game here.

The Lions never got started as the defending Grey Cup champions won their third victory of the league schedule before 17,386 fans in their first start at home.

Besides Kwong, the Edmonton touchdown scorers were fullback Johnny Bright and star halfback Rollie Miles.

Vancouver majors were scored by halfbacks Ron Clinkscale and Frank Williams.

JUMP INTO LEAD

The Eskimos jumped into a lead with touchdowns by Bright and Miles early in the first quarter. Bright's major came only five plays after the Edmonton club first laid hands on the ball.

Clinksdale scored his major in the second quarter, but Kwong matched it by romping across from the British Columbia six to keep the Eskimos well in front.

The third quarter featured grueling football with a lack of thrills compared to the first half but the Eskimos came through with another Kwong major as the quarter ended.

In the fourth quarter, the China Clipper from Calgary went off left tackle from the B.C. 13 for his third and final touchdown.

GALIFFA STARRY

The most spectacular touchdown of the game was scored by the Lions in the last quarter. Quarterback Galiffa, whose passes were the main weapon in the shaky British Columbia arsenal all night, threw one from the Eskimo 51 to Williams. Williams gathered it in just outside the goal line and went over with the Edmonton safety man vainly trying to catch him.

Although the two-fullback system used by Eskimo coach Frank Ivy was still the main feature of the Edmonton attack, quarterback Jackie Parker took to the air with more success than he did in the two earlier victories by the club. His efforts kept the Vancouver defence off balance and contributed to the higher score than the club racked up in the first two victories over Calgary and Winnipeg.

The Eskimos had 22 first downs compared to 10 for Vancouver. They gained 357 yards on the ground compared to a meager 45 for the Lions, while the Lions gained 226 yards in the air compared to Edmonton's 78.

Edmonton passers completed four out of nine while the Lions completed 16 out of 23.

SUMMARY

First quarter: 1. Edmonton, touchdown, Bright 4.45; 2. Edmonton, convert, Dean 4.55; 3. Edmonton, touchdown, Miles 10.03; 4. Edmonton, convert, Dean 10.04.

Second quarter: 5. Vancouver, touchdown, Bartosh 4.38; 6. Vancouver, convert, Pollard 4.38; 7. Edmonton, touchdown, Kwong 7.04; 8. Edmonton, convert, Dean 7.04.

Third quarter: 9. Edmonton, touchdown, Kwong 14.50; 10. Edmonton, convert, Dean 14.50.

Fourth quarter: 11. Edmonton, touchdown, Kwong 5.02; 12. Vancouver, touchdown, Williams 12.15; 13. Vancouver, convert, Baker 12.15.

Roughies Thump Stamps

CALGARY (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders scored their second victory of the Western Interprovincial Football Union season Saturday night, downing Calgary Stampeders 29-12 before 12,400 fans. It was Calgary's third loss in a row.

End Doug Killoh scored two of Roughriders' five touchdowns, one on a blocked kick and the other on a Calgary fumble.

Larry Isbell caught a pass in the end zone, and Bobby Marlow carried over from the Calgary two-yard line for the other.

Joe Aguirre picked up eight points on a field goal, a single and four converts. Isbell kicked a single for the other Saskatchewan point.

Calgary scored on two touchdowns, one convert and a rouge. Klosterman went over from the two-yard line for Calgary's first major and a Dickerson to McKenna forward was good for the other. Miner converted the second, and Meyers kicked into the end zone for a single.

Saskatchewan led 4-0 at the end of the first quarter, but fell behind by a 6-4 margin at halftime. At the end of the third quarter it was 16-6 for Saskatchewan.

Band Leader's Tempo Captures Silver Cup

DETROIT (UP)—Band leader Guy Lombardo's Tempo VII spurted ahead of Gold Cup winner Gale V in the championship heat Saturday to win the 10th Silver Cup race on the Detroit river.

The victory in the last of the six 15-mile heats over the unusually calm waterway gave Tempo VII 1,100 points. That put it well ahead of the two Detroit boats which placed second; Lee Schoenith's Gale V and the Dossin brothers' Miss Pepsi.

Finishing a poor third was Miss Thriftway of Seattle, runner-up to Gale V in the Gold Cup race earlier this month.

Lombardo's boat, piloted by Detroiter Danny Foster, moved into the championship heat after placing second behind Miss Pepsi in the first elimination heat and then coming back to win the first of the three final heats.

Six heats instead of the scheduled five were run because 13 boats qualified and race officials limited each heat to six entries for safety's sake.

Gale V, driven by Gold Cup winner Schoenith, started off as if it was going to make a sweep of the "cup series." The boat lapped Miss Cadillac of Detroit in scoring an easy victory in the first elimination heat. Schoenith obviously was holding the speedy powerboat back in the first finals heat in which he placed fourth to collect just enough points to enter the championship run.

It was another bad day for Miss Thriftway, the hard-luck boat that won two of the three Gold Cup heats but still lost out because of a complicated scoring system.

LOST GOGGLES

Driver Bill Muncey of Detroit lost his goggles on the first lap of the first elimination heat and the boat finished a poor third behind Gale V and Detroit baker Back Schafer's Such Crust III.

It was a different story, however, in the second finals heat when the Seattle boat sped to victory over both Gale V and its sister craft, Gale IV. But when it came to the showdown in the final heat, Miss Thriftway and Miss Pepsi both spun out of control on the first turn of the three-mile course. Both boats remained afloat and started up again, but neither managed to get back in the race.

Alberni Downs Victoria Club In First Game

Trade-Ats 34-game win streak in senior "B" softball competition was snapped last night when Port Alberni played host to the Victoria team and scored a 3-2 victory in the first game of their best-of-three series for the Vancouver Island championship.

Second game of the final will be played at 2.30 this afternoon at Heywood Avenue park, with the third game, if necessary, scheduled for 6.30 tonight.

Trade-Ats led, 2-0, at the end of three innings and made the lead stand up until the seventh frame, when Norm Waugh tied the game at 2-2 with a two-run triple. Alberni then put together three singles to push across the winning run in the bottom of the eighth.

Ron Bissett was the winning hurler, while Jack Girrard took the loss for Trade-Ats.

Lester Meets His Former Pupils

Canada's Mr. Hockey, Lester Patrick of Victoria (right), renewed acquaintances with two of his former players last night before the Vancouver Hockey All-Stars met Chinese Students in an exhibition softball game at Royal Athletic park. Patrick was manager of New York Rangers when Alex Shibicky (left) and Neil Colville (centre) played for the National Hockey League team.

The American League race became hotter than noon at the equator in July Saturday as Cleveland pulled up even with the New York Yankees and the Chicago White Sox slammed their way within a half game of the pacesetters.

A four-run rally in the eighth brought the Indians from behind to a thrilling 7-6 victory over the Yankees. The White Sox had it easier, crushing Washington 11-1.

And the Red Sox kept right in the battle by edging Detroit 4-3 on Ted Williams' dramatic, two-out grandslam homer in the ninth inning, to pull within four games of the leaders.

DODGERS WIN

In the National League, Sandy Koufax, a husky, 19-year-old bonus baby, pulled the league-leading Dodgers out of a tailspin by blanking Cincinnati 7-0 with a brilliant two-hit, 14-strikeout performance.

Milwaukee kept 10 games behind by nipping New York 5-4, and dropped the Giants into fourth place and moved the Philadelphia Phillies into third. The Phils walloped St. Louis 8-2.

In the other game, Chicago edged Pittsburgh 4-3 on Walker Cooper's ninth inning homer. Baltimore and Kansas City were not scheduled.

Trailing 6-3, mainly on Bill Skowron's three-run homer and starter Don Larsen's two-run homer, the Indians blasted their way into a tie for the lead on their four-run spree in the eighth.

Bobby Avila's three-run homer off Johnny Kucks evened the count at 6-6. After the Indians loaded the bags on Bob Grim, Bob Lemon hit a sacrifice fly for the winning run.

SNAP STREAK

The White Sox snapped a three-game losing spell on lefty Jack Harshman's eight-hit flinging and a 13-hit assault against four Washington pitchers. Minnie Minoso hit a two-run homer for Chicago.

Detroit got only two hits—Jack Phillips' run-scoring single in the first and Bill Tuttle's two-run homer in the third—and made it stand up for a 3-0 lead going into the ninth. Then Detroit's Frank Lary weakened.

With one away, he was reached for singles by Eddie Joost and Faye Throneberry. Billy Goodman flied out but Billy Klaus singled to right to load the bases. Lary was replaced by Al Aber.

BACK IN RACE

Wham! Williams sent the ball flying high in the upper rightfield seats for his 24th homer, his third grand slammer of the season and the 14th of his career. The Red Sox were back in the race.

Koufax, making his second start of the year (he went only 4 2-3 innings against Pittsburgh July 6), yielded only a two-out single to Ted Kluszewski in the first inning and a two-out double by Sam Mele in the ninth.

His 14 whiffs was a National League high for the year, surpassing the 12 strikeouts of Chicago's Sam Jones and Milwaukee's Bob Buhl.

Carl Furillo and Jackie Robinson each hit two-run homers to help end Brooklyn's three-game losing streak.

Seattle Golfer Takes U.S. Women's Crown

BY HUGH FULLERTON JR.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Perky Patricia Ann Lesser of Seattle, scrambling but still superb, won the 55th Women's Amateur Championship of the United States Golf Association Saturday by administering a crushing 7 and 6 defeat of Jane Ann Nelson, a spunky school teacher from Indianapolis, in the 36-hole final.

It was the most lopsided final match in the women's national tournament since Babe Zaharias beat Mrs. Clara Sherman, 11 and 9, in 1946.

Miss Lesser, barely 22 years old but already a golfer of note, took charge of her older but comparatively unknown opponent on the back nine of the morning round over the hilly, tricky Myers Park Country Club course to lead 5 up at the 18-hole mark.

SUB-PAR GOLF

Except for one horribly bad hole in the morning, the Seattle University senior played sub-par golf all the way. And the 37-37—74 women's par for the 6,413-yard Myers park course isn't easy to master. During the entire week of play only Miss Lsser has been able to beat it consistently.

Miss Nelson, a vacation-time golfer who hadn't gone beyond the fourth round in two previous appearances in the women's amateur couldn't match that pace after the first half dozen holes. For that distance, Pat had to rely on a red-hot putter to stay even. Then as she dropped behind, Jane completely lost control of Myers Parks tricky, bumpy Bermuda grass greens.

The new champion, twice a semi-finalist before she reached the top and a member of the 1954 Curtis Cup team, is a tall, deeply tanned girl who has plenty of endurance and competitive spirit. To some extent it was endurance that counted on this blazing hot day.

As champion, Miss Lesser succeeds Barbara Romack, who was knocked out in the second round. Pat came through the toughest half of the draw, beating Mary Ann Downey, Barbara's conqueror, Mrs. Jane Crum Covington and Polly Riley on the way to the final.

Late Surge Gives Irish Opening-Game Victory

NANAIMO (Special) — A tremendous four-goal surge in the final quarter carried Victoria Shamrocks to a come-from-behind 15-13 victory over Nanaimo Timbermen here Saturday night in a pulsating first game of the best-of-seven final for the Western Canada lacrosse title.

Nip O'Hearn, pressed into regular service when Whitey Severson was unable to strip because of a shoulder injury that has been slow to heal, fired what proved to be the winner at 8.35 of the final quarter and capped a great comeback by the hustling Shamrocks.

NOISY CROWD

A noisy crowd of more than 2,700, including a strong Victoria contingent of supporters, packed Nanaimo's Civic arena to the rafters to watch the Shamrocks gain the jump in a series that is expected to be predominately a home-floor affair. The clubs meet at Victoria Monday night in the second game with the third game set for Nanaimo Wednesday night.

Giving a great display of teamwork, outhustling the Timbermen all the way and playing at their best when the going was the toughest, the Shamrocks blasted four straight goals past bulky Nanaimo netminder Fred Fulla in the final quarter while holding the home team scoreless.

BROWNING GETS FOUR

Although it was a team effort, Archie Browning and Bob Dobbie turned in outstanding performances for the Rocks and kept them in the running in the early going when the Timbermen were at their best. Browning, rapidly finding his top form, rifled in four goals and added one assist while Dobbie scored three times—twice in the opening quarter.

The game, which was rugged but clean affair with only 14 minutes in penalties, was played at race-horse speed in the first three quarters and the pace seemed to tell on the players in the final 15 minutes.

Trailing 13-11 going into the final quarter, the Rocks cut the deficit to one goal at 3.10 when Browning scored on a quick break. Larry Booth, on a quick shot, tied the count at 7.03, and O'Hearn put the Shamrocks into the lead with his all-important marker for the first time since the second quarter.

STALLED EFFECTIVELY

Scrappy Pee Wee Bradshaw drilled in the Rocks' 15th goal at 11.54 and the winners slowed the pace and stalled effectively in the final three minutes, keeping possession of the ball for most of that time.

One of the big differences between the two teams last night was hustle. The Rocks fought hard and scrambled in the corners for loose balls, digging at all times, while the Timbermen were content to wait for the ball and were beaten time and again by the persevering Rocks.

Probably the outstanding player on the floor was rugged Don Ashbee, who scored five times and added one assist. Two of Ashbee's goals came while Nanaimo was playing short-handed and the black-haired forward was a source of worry to Victoria goalie Geordie Johnston with his tricky movements.

GOALIES SHAKY

Both goalies appeared a bit shaky in the high-scoring first half although they settled down and made several sparkling saves later in the contest. Both teams scored on better than half their shots in the first two quarters with Fulla stopping eight of 17 shots and Johnston blocking nine of 18 drives.

There was never more than a two-goal difference between the clubs. The Timbermen opened scoring in the first two minutes of the initial period but the Rocks surged back with three straight goals before Nanaimo tied the count at 3-3.

Browning's second goal of the first quarter put the Shamrocks ahead, 5-4, and Bradshaw increased their lead to 6-4 early in the second frame. From there it was a see-saw battle with first one team, then the other taking the lead.

Nanaimo went ahead for the second time in the game at 10.28 of the second frame when Arnie Dugan scored while the teams were playing five aside but Larry Booth put the Shamrocks even at 9-9 to the end of the first half.

Ashbee scored three of his goals in the third frame when the Timbermen outscored the Rocks, 4-2, and the home team appeared on its way to a victory until the Irish caught fire in the final session.

Ford Grabs Lead; Snead Slips to 74

MONTREAL (CP) — Stocky Doug Ford, winner of the $16,800 Open two years ago, fired a two-under-par 68 Saturday to move into the lead at the three-quarter mark of this year's 72-hole event.

Ford, who took the prized U.S. Professional Golfers' Association title this summer, had a 203 total—seven under par—for 54 holes and a one-stroke lead entering the final round today.

Alone in second place with a 204 total was Gene Littler of Palm Springs, Calif., who also shot a third round 68.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver, tied for second place after the first 36 holes, slipped to third spot at 207 along with Jack Burke, jr., of Kiamesha Lake, N.Y.

PALMER HAS 65

Snead, starting with a 134 shot a four-over-par 74 for a 208 total. Grouped with Snead are this year's Canadian Open champion; Arnold Palmer of Latrobe, Penn.; Freddie Haas of New Orleans, and Mike Souchak of Grossinger's, N.Y.

Palmer shot a third-round five under 65—the lowest of the day.

Leonard, like most of the leaders, found trouble with a brisk wind.

Ford of Kiamesha Lake, put together a pair of 34s. His first two rounds were 66 and 69. He was two under par for the front nine and came back in even par. Two years ago when he won the event, Ford had a 265 total and a five-stroke margin over the field.

Littler, former U.S. Amateur champion, missed his par at the third and fourth holes but got even again with birdies at the sixth and seventh. On the back nine he was over par at the 11th and 18th, but collected four birdies, running down putts of two to 15 feet.

On the first nine, Leonard's two birdies were more than offset by his errors. He three-putted the fourth, missed a five-footer on the sixth and another short one on the eighth. He was par all the way coming in except at the eleventh where he three-putted.

Hockey Stars Triumph, 8-2, Over Students

Vancouver Hockey All-Stars proved themselves to be just as adept with a softball bat as with a hockey stick at Royal Athletic park last night when they downed Chinese Students, 8-2, in a benefit softball game for the Queen Alexandra Solarium building fund.

Such hockey greats as Tony Leswick, Neil Colville and Alex Shibicky, aided by a pair of pitchers from Vancouver's South Hill league, gave Colin Kilburn's Students a little more than they could handle in the way of softball, scoring eight runs on seven hits.

Kostenuk Nips Green To Take Main Event

Victoria drivers outmanuvered their American competition to take top honors in the big-car race meet at Western Speedway last night.

Ed Kostenuk flashed under the checkered flag just ahead of Pike Green of Seattle to capture the main event, and local drivers finished in first place in all other events.

In the trophy dash, Bob Simpson grabbed an early lead and held on for the win although pressed constantly by Del Fanning. Simpson crossed the finish line less than half a car length in front. Fanning had previously come within one-fifth of a second of breaking the track time trial record of 21:05 set by Simpson last year.

Trophy Dash—1. Bob Simpson; 2. Del Fanning; 3. Gene Wolfin.

Ken Kenneth, Geoghagen Again Tackle Lee, Davis

Sky Hi Lee and We Willie Davis, the giant wrestling team who have provided the fireworks in the past two main events at Memorial arena, will meet New Zealand champion Ken Kenneth and Irish champ Dr. Timothy Geohagen in a return Australian tag team bout Tuesday night.

The best-of-three falls affair will have no time limit with the grapplers battling to the finish in what could be one of the roughest bouts seen at the arena in some time. Sky Hi Lee and Davis were awarded last week's decision by referee Gordie Gordienko and the result caused a near-riot.

Don Kindred will tangle with Earl McCready, former British Empire heavyweight champion, in the semi-main while Gordienko matches holds with Mike Belton in a one-fall opener at 8.30 p.m.

Newcomers Improve Drakes' Title Hopes

[illegible] Drakes, who open defence of their Victoria Intermediate [illegible] Football League championship against Vampires on Labor Day at MacDonald park, have started a rebuilding [illegible] in an attempt to plug the gaps caused by the loss of several key players.

[illegible] the player who will be missed the most is Ken Higgs, one of Victoria's outstanding grid performers during the past few seasons, who has apparently [illegible] a berth with B.C. Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

BIG FACTOR

Higgs' tremendous power and his [illegible] ability was a big factor in the Drakes' [illegible] victory over Ray Mitchell's Vampires in last year's city final, and his ability to pick up the [illegible] when the chips were down will be sorely missed by the Drakes.

Speedy halfback Don Donaldson [illegible] and sometimes spectacular [illegible] Brent Hatfield of Vancouver and veteran Dick Irving, both husky linemen, will also be missing, [illegible] last year's [illegible] who took his turn at the quarterback position, has retired from football.

OFFICIALS CONFIDENT

But team officials are facing the [illegible] confident, and boast a good number of newcomers who are working out with the nucleus of last year's rugged squad. New coach Don Douglas, who will probably run his club out of a [illegible] wing, will have a heavy line and both speed and power in the backfield.

Key man in the backfield is expected to be Pete Turko, who with Higgs formed the best one-two punch in the league last season. Turko, who joined the [illegible] after playing Vancouver intermediate football, is a fine punter and a powerful runner who is expected to hand down the full back position.

RAMSDEN DUE TODAY

Two Vancouver players are being counted upon heavily in the backfield. Gary Ramsden, who can fill in at either a half back spot or at quarterback, will arrive in Victoria today, while Bill Brown, a fleet half back, arrived here yesterday.

Also battling for a quarterback position is Don Hendry, rugged [illegible] and athlete who passed [illegible] Oak Bay two seasons ago but was sidelined by injuries last season.

NEW PLAYERS

Another backfield threat will be holdover Red White, who can play either at fullback or as a halfback. Other halfbacks include holdovers Gary Webster, speedy George Wass, Ray Ramsay and Pat Cormode. Reg Lott has come out of retirement and is also bidding for a halfback berth.

Ends will include [illegible] Ken West, Ed Bourke and Jack [illegible], and newcomer Tilman Braz, a six-foot, [illegible] pounder from Courtenay.

FRY JOINS CLUB

At the tackle positions will be holdovers Harry Turner and Larry Brewster, both tall and capable workers, and [illegible] Pat O'Neil. Guards will be Joe Fry, who has moved over from Vampires, Pete [illegible], Dave Reeves, Tex West and Ralph Snider.

A newcomer who is expected to give Drakes a big boost in the line is centre Al Stevenson, a rugged 270-pound centre who had four seasons experience with Montreal Alouettes. Mel Davison, an end last season, is also being groomed for a centre position.

Drakes will see their first action Saturday when they host Vancouver's YO Red Raiders in an exhibition game at Royal Athletic park at 2:30 p.m.

Australians Regain Davis Cup As Hoad, Hartwig Triumph In Dramatic Doubles Tussle

By WILL GRIMSLEY

[illegible] Australia's Lewis Hoad and Rex Hartwig, playing [illegible] tennis, won a dramatic doubles duel from America's best Saturday to send the Davis Cup on another long trip to the bottom of the world.

The hard-hitting Aussies, after dropping a [illegible] opening set, [illegible] Tony Trabert and Vic Seixas 12-14, 6-4, 6-3, 3-6, 7-5. This clinched the cup for Australia with an insurmountable 3-0 lead.

The triumph reversed last year's surprising score, which won the cup for the United States. In the first two days [illegible] rendered Sunday's [illegible] singles matches mere formalities to be [illegible] for [illegible]. They cannot change the [illegible].

With the [illegible] [illegible] Captain Bill Talbert of the U.S. [illegible] asked and was granted permission to replace Trabert with [illegible] Richardson, young Rhodes scholar from Baton Rouge, La.

Talbert said Trabert had been bothered by blisters on his racquet hand, an old ailment for him. Richardson has been a team member three years but has never played in a challenge round.

Harry Hopman, [illegible]

A [illegible] West Side Tennis Club [illegible] thrilled to the [illegible] fortunes of the [illegible] contest.

Both Seixas and Trabert [illegible] and [illegible] better than in their singles [illegible]. Hartwig [illegible] the strong [illegible] of the Australian combination [illegible] [illegible] although his [illegible] service often was unreturnable [illegible] frequently.

It was Hartwig who played the major role in breaking Seixas' service in the 12th game of the final set [illegible] which decided the [illegible] hand passing shot [illegible] the ball as Vic reached [illegible] in an attempt to return it.

It was a quick ending and the crowd stood for minutes, applauding [illegible] in the middle of the court.

Hopman called it "one of the finest doubles matches I have ever seen," and Jack Kramer, former world champion, said, "This was one of the greatest doubles matches [illegible]."

Talbert praised the Australian victory and said, "Our team was fit and played the best it could. We were beaten by better players. We have no excuses."

Preston North End Records Third Triumph As Surprises Mark First Division Matches

LONDON (Reuters)—A day of surprises in English League soccer Saturday, caused partly by sultry weather and concrete-like playing [illegible] left only Preston North End with a perfect record after one week of play.

Preston North End alone among the 22 First Division sides has [illegible] record almost went by the boards today.

[illegible] showed they had recovered from their recent lacklustre mission to Moscow—they dropped both exhibition matches to Russian teams—by slamming Manchester City, last season's cup finalists, 7-2. It was Wolves first victory this year.

IN EARLY PHOENICIAN AND ROMAN DAYS SHIPS WERE BUILT WITH SUCH A SIMILAR APPEARANCE TO STEM AND STERN THAT THEIR BUILDERS FELT IT NECESSARY TO DECORATE THE STEM POST WITH CARVINGS TO INDICATE THE FRONT OF THE SHIP. THIS WAS THE BEGINNING OF THE FIGUREHEAD WHICH HAS BEEN A FAVORITE ADORNMENT OF SHIPS THROUGH THE CENTURIES. CARVINGS SOON GAVE WAY TO FIGURES OF ANIMALS AND WARRIORS. SUPERSTITION PLAYED A PART INFLUENCING THE SHIP OWNERS TO SELECT A REPLICA OF A LIVING BEAST OR PERSON TO "HELP THE SHIP FIND ITS WAY." THE USE OF A FIGUREHEAD WAS PARTICULARLY POPULAR IN ENGLAND WHERE THE LION AND THE DRAGON WERE FAVORITES. AS LATE AS THE 1914 WORLD WAR SOME TYPES OF BRITISH FIGHTING SHIPS WERE ADORNED WITH TRADITIONAL FIGUREHEADS. TODAY ALTHOUGH FIGUREHEADS ARE DISAPPEARING A LINK WITH THE PAST REMAINS IN OUR PRACTICE OF GIVING A NAME TO OUR SHIPS USUALLY LINKING THEM TO A PERSON.

TV Pictures on Wall Due in Near Future

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—That "old style" picture tube television set that you have in your home will soon be replaced by the type that will project the picture on your living-room wall.

Dr. E. W. Engstrom of the Radio Corporation of America outlined new advances in the TV field before delegates of the western electronics show and convention here.

Do It Yourself

Drips Defeat Rain Drops

By J. RALPH DALZELL

Picture V shows an exterior view of a typical double-hung window [illegible] trim, drips, sills and sash may differ but all double-hung windows, particularly in older houses, are about the same.

The purpose of the drips at the tops of the windows is to deflect rain water from the trim and siding. When houses are new the drips function properly, but as [illegible] pull apart and [illegible]. Water [illegible] back of the wall where [illegible] damage to other [illegible] and decorating.

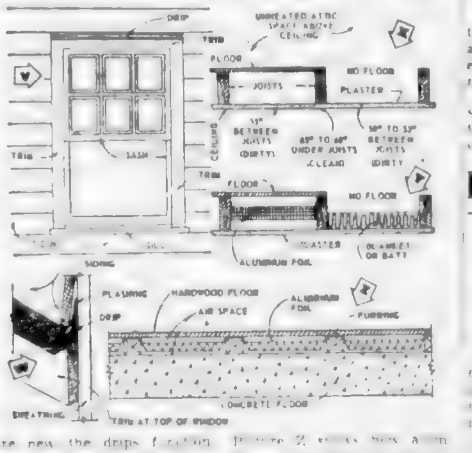
Picture W shows one way to use sheet metal flashing to prevent leaking. Pry up the pieces of siding above the drips and insert sheet metal flashing as shown. When the siding is renailed the sheet metal will also be nailed into place. Bend the bottom edge of the flashing so it [illegible] snugly around the drips. Flashing can be painted to match the siding or trim.

In cold climates ceilings in rooms under unheated attics often develop alternate and parallel clean and dirty streaks caused by varying temperatures. Picture X shows a ceiling under an attic space. Ceiling temperatures are indicated when the room is maintained at 50 degrees. When moisture laden room air contacts the cold ceiling, some of the vapor is condensed because the cooler air becomes the less vapor it holds. More vapor [illegible] on the ceiling between the joists and wood lath. Damp surfaces attract dust so streaks appear.

Picture Y shows insulation between joists to keep the ceiling warmer, which in turn eliminates the streaks. Flooring can be removed temporarily and aluminum foil nailed to the sides of the [illegible] present blanket, batt or loose insulation may be used between insulation and plaster. Be sure to ventilate the attic spaces when insulating.

Basement concrete floors are often dry but too cold for comfort. A new floor surface and insulation is a remedy. Picture Z shows how a [illegible] insulation can be [illegible].

Use an electric drill with masonry bit to make holes in the concrete under the furring strips. Force wood pegs in the holes and nail the furring strips to the pegs. Tack the [illegible] then apply the new [illegible].



QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Q—Can plasterboard be bent slightly to form arches?

A—Yes. Use a sharp knife to score the back of the plasterboard. The sharper the bend the closer the parallel scoring should be.

Q—What is catalytic varnish and where is it used?

A—This varnish is highly resistant to water, acid, alkali and [illegible] and is used for [illegible] finishing. A catalyst is added before application to hasten drying.

Cost to Canada Tops $80,000,000

Huge Annual Fire Toll Preventable

On the average a fire alarm sounds every five minutes somewhere in Canada, making a startling total of more than 1,000 fires a week. They cost us as a nation, more than $80,000,000 and more than 500 lives every year.

Of these, according to the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating, [illegible] is brought about merely by the efforts of Canadians to keep themselves warm in winter.

Nearly 90% of Canada's fires can be directly or indirectly traced to faults in home heating systems — faulty chimneys, flues, misused fireplaces, hot ashes and sparks on roofs.

The tragic thing is that of this type of fire almost 100% are preventable. They are due either to ignorance or carelessness.

Take chimney fires for instance. Most of these are caused through an accumulation of coal soot in the chimney itself. Allowed to remain, it will eventually burst into flame.

WORN INSULATION

Other fires are caused through the insulation between chimneys and the structure of the building itself being allowed to crack or wear away.

[illegible] the heating plant is another big contributor to the huge fire rate. Much of the [illegible] the basement during the summer and should be cleared away before the first winter fires are lit.

One of the commonest causes of fire is laziness. This sometimes takes the form of using kerosene or gasoline to help get a good fire going.

Another lazy habit is that of overstoking. Stoking should be done on a little and often basis where no automatic stoker is used. If too much fuel is heaped on a fire the fire itself is [illegible]. There is no hot spot left to ignite the gases as they are formed, and a minor explosion can result.

OUTMODED SYSTEM

But perhaps one of the commonest causes of fires in heating systems is that of overloading a system which is basically not efficient enough to [illegible] quite today.

The best way to avoid fire from a faulty heating system in an older type house is to have it replaced by a modern system, complete with the latest devices to control heat and ensure proper stoking. The new system will not only ensure safety but will pay dividends both in comfort, convenience and in the real estate value of the property as well.

Losses Rocket in Year

Careless Smoker Top Fire Cause

Careless smokers caused more fires in B.C. last year than any other single agency, according to the [illegible] report of retiring fire marshal W. A. Walker.

The report showed that fire losses climbed from $8,0[illegible] in [illegible] to $10,17[illegible] in 1954.

[illegible]

Careless smokers were blamed for 2,808 fires last year which resulted in seven deaths and damage amounting to $[illegible].

Other [illegible] causes of fire in 1954 were faulty [illegible], sparks from fireplaces, [illegible] defective chimneys, stove or [illegible].

The report [illegible] Victoria experienced [illegible] fires last year resulting in damage totaling $180,926.

Communist Agent Surrenders Self

BERLIN (AP) — A 21-year-old agent of the Communist East German security police gave himself up to West Berlin police after he was ordered to kidnap a friend, it was announced Friday. West Berlin police said Heinz Guenther [illegible] turned himself in last Tuesday.

Aged Physician Dies at 101

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Frederick Reed Streeter, who only recently was so active he shovelled snow from the roof of his house, died Thursday at 101. Dr. Streeter was a practising physician here for 70 years. In 1950 he collected the benefits of his own life insurance policy.

It is usually a wise idea for declarer to cash his good tricks and compel the opponents to make embarrassing discards. But in this case where South [illegible] whether West was embarrassed or not he could be very sure that he himself would be. So after cashing only three rounds of clubs South should have postponed cashing the fourth until he had forced West to hand him his needed ninth trick. Declarer could afford to discard one diamond and one heart on West's long spades provided he had not forced himself to make an earlier discard on his good trick.

The Availability of Cash Determines Value of Bonds

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A reader (H.W., Victoria,) expresses some concern at recent sub-par quotations for a number of Government of Canada bonds. He [illegible] that government bonds should not be speculative and should be considered a safe and sound investment. He also asks what influences cause the fluctuations of government bonds.

The answer to the second part of the question is that government bonds fluctuate with the availability of cash. If money is dear then the price of bonds declines to get in line with the current interest rates.

When money is cheap as it was until recently the bond yields were sufficiently attractive to send the market value of government and other bonds well above their par markings.

While the government, through its vassal, the Bank of Canada, controls the situation through its variations of the rediscount rate, it only indirectly alters the market value of its own bonds.

The fluctuations of the bond market are those of supply and demand.

The Canadian government when it issues a bond merely gives an undertaking that it will pay interest at a stated coupon rate and will redeem the bond in full at the end of a fixed period.

In other words the holder of a 1966 bond will receive $1.00 for every $1.00 bond when the bond matures.

If the market values that bond today at $96 or $105 the government is not strictly speaking involved. The holder has the option of taking the capital gain in the one case or holding on to his bond to get his money back eventually.

It is because of this feature—and it is a feature of the government bonds of practically every country—that the investor should exercise considerable caution in making up his portfolio.

If he invests his money in long terms in order to obtain a higher yield then he must face the possibility of a wider spread in the market value than if he bought short-term bonds with a lower yield.

If he does this he should have [illegible] ing his estate and keeping it clear of embarrassing situations that might mean loss of capital through holding unsuitable maturities.

My reader seems to think [illegible] the government of Canada is culpable in allowing such a situation, but what sort of state would our national resources be in if the government was called upon to redeem at par all of its maturities at any time?

There would be no sense in putting out a 20-year bond at a higher rate of interest than one of two or five years if the government had to offer interim redemption on the longer term bond.

Indeed the Canadian government has gone a great deal further than many in offering the annual Canada Savings Bonds at a favorable rate of interest and which cannot be traded but may be redeemed at par at any time.

This is the type of security for those who want to avoid any possibility of capital depreciation.

The Savings Bonds are such an attractive form of investment that the individual purchasing limit each year is set at $5,000.

MOVE TO SUBURBS

Woodward's Stores which recently opened a large store in a suburban shopping centre in Edmonton is preparing to embark on another scheme of similar magnitude in the Shaughnessy Heights area of Vancouver.

Some 30 acres of land have been purchased and plans will be announced in the near future.

I understand that although Woodward's have taken on this big job, it is not likely to take precedence over the new store which has been promised for Victoria for some time.

The movement of the big stores into suburban areas, is, as the Colonist pointed out in a recent editorial, a threat to the downtown shopping area hampered as they are by parking difficulties. The trend has now been definitely established throughout the north American continent.

SCHACHT SEES TROUBLE

That grim faced and astute old bird, Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, German banker and economist has been [illegible] the world's economic future for the benefit of the British Press.

At a conference in London, where he is arranging the publication of his memoirs Schacht said that a trade recession beginning in the United States was "inevitable," and that it would spread to Britain and then to Germany and other heavily industrialized countries.

"We are all exporting an enormous amount of investment goods today, but how much longer we shall be able to do it I do not know," he said.

But Schacht, who claims he separated from Hitler in 1938 when he saw that Hitler wanted to go to war, was unwilling to look into the crystal bowl and tell the British press when the recession would start.

Reason for the change is the large increase in European car output up 211 per cent in the last seven years.

Colonist Classes Assist More Victoria Children

By MARGE NAYSMITH

Well, we did it. The last week of The Daily Colonist swim classes was graduation week and we handed out "diplomas" to 684 youngsters.

And it wasn't a bad show. Of the 684 we gave 155 swimmers certificates (that's a buff-colored card.) These children swam 40 feet on front and 40 feet on their backs in the tests. Most of them could swim a little when they started, many as a result of previous Daily Colonist swim classes.

Another 448 received "beginner certificates," (a pink card) after completing the 25-foot swimming test. The other 81 received "attendance cards" which shows they came to the classes.

About 400 of the 448 who swam the 25 feet for their beginners' certificates couldn't swim at all when they started. They have made the big jump. I hope lots of those come back next year, too.

Also, of course, thanks to parents for their co-operation and to the proprietors of Happyland and to lifeguard Brian Fletcher for their wonderful help. Thanks from me and The Daily Colonist.

We also wound up the instruction at Salt Spring [illegible] September 9 for some tests on the 72 children who turned out for the classes, also sponsored by the Colonist.

Confused Karen Canned

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London township police force Friday had its second controversial dismissal of the week.

This time it was Karen, the police dog with a complex.

Chief F. C. Stronach, who earlier this week raised a strong protest from the police association when he dismissed his second-in-command Sgt. Arthur Bolyea, said the handsome German shepherd dog didn't fit in with his plans.

Humane Society officials said Karen, an independent animal, had been unable to differentiate between constables and crooks.

"Another personality clash," the chief commented.

Why I May Join Sir Oliver's Lodge

By RING W. LARDNER

To the Editor:

Though they couldn't nobody hardly call this a medium winter I guess they never before was so much talk about spiritualism and etc. running amuck and a specially since Sir Oliver Lodge come accrost the old pond and begin telling us what he seen and heard and etc. but I don't generally always take other peoples hear says as they are libel to let their imagination runaway with them so at first I didn't pay much tension to the talk but when a person's own personal friends tells you about haveing experiences to say nothing about haveing a few of them yourself why you can't help from beginning to think that maybe after all they's something to it.

So where as I was a septic a few wks. ago you might say why lately different things has come up that has kind of made me [illegible] and while I haven't as yet came right out and joined the ranks of the occults why still and all they's a few things that I don't see how they could of happened on natural grounds and I thought maybe the [illegible] of readers might maybe [illegible] in hearing about them.

Well in the 1st place they've been a couple of [illegible] devices in regards to the telephone like for inst. the other night I was setting in the [illegible] ing rm. monking with a deck of cards when I thought I heard [illegible]

I KNOW SO

Well for a minute I didn't know what to think but finally I pulled my self together and went back in the living rm. and I hadn't no sooner than got there when my Mrs. says who was it so I said Did you think you heard the telephone bell ring? so she says I didn't think so I know so. So I says Well I heard it too but when I went there they wasn't nobody on the line. So here my friends was a incidence where TWO PEOPLE agreed that the telephone bell had rang and yet when I come to answer it they wasn't nobody there [illegible]

Another incidence connected [illegible] a few wks. before [illegible] New [illegible]

SAME THING AGAIN

His Humor Clean If Not Polished

Ring Lardner, who collected colloquialisms for the literary world via his unerring ear for the speech of illiterate companions, once wistfully expressed three ambitions. These were to see all the baseball he wanted, to sell one of the short stories he had written and to write a play. Before he died at the tragically early age of 48 in 1933 he had covered sandlot and world-series games as sports editor for newspapers in South Bend, Ind., Chicago, Boston and St. Louis, sold all but one of his stories and several books, and been hailed as lyricist as well as co-author of a 1929 Broadway hit, "June Moon."

Lardner grabbed his first chance to be a writer [illegible] while he was entering bill collections in the books at the gas [illegible] office in his hometown, Niles, Mich. A man from the South Bend Times appeared asking for Ring's brother and left in Ring's company with the conviction that this Lardner "would be a good man" for the paper.

Great sorrow was to come to Mrs. Sutton at Genoa Bay. While hunting on Mount Tzouhalem Alfred was shot and instantly killed in mistake for a deer in September 1886.

Madame [illegible], of Saint Etienne, France, was dumbfounded when she telephoned her lover recently and heard her husband's voice on the line.

"Just look out the window," the outraged spouse told her. "I'm on the telephone pole to the left."

The fickle lady saw her husband roosting atop of the indicated pole and learned later that, having been in a communications company during the war, he had used this army technique to tap her wires.

SECURITY

"To live happy, let us live hidden."

This French proverb is being corroborated anew by a story from Cairo. The chief of police of the new regime entered a barber shop.

"Do you know me?" he asked the barber.

"No," the tonsorialist replied.

The big shot sighed with relief:

"You can shave me, then."

Radio Fugitives Prolific Team For Panel Shows

By MARGARET McMANUS

NEW YORK—In the hallowed halls of television, where scarcely any ivy has yet begun to grow, some faint tendrils of tradition are shooting up—landmarks, so to speak, are beginning to appear.

Latest brainchild of Messrs. Goodson and Todman in the way of panel shows is the NBC-TV production "Make the Connection." Here is the cast of [illegible] left to right: [illegible] Kover, [illegible] Jim McKay, sports [illegible] and master of ceremonies; [illegible] Bracken, comedian, and Betty White, actress.

One such is the pro[illegible] hard-driving producing team of Goodson and Todman, specialists in the panel and the audience participation shows. The names have taken on the familiar quality of a good rhyme in which one is one heard without the other.

"They may call us the Gold Dust Twins, my friends," says Bill Todman, a tall, dark, fast-talking young man of 39, "but they know our names. And any reference to gold is not purely coincidental."

This is no understatement. "What's My Line?" "I've Got a Secret," "The Name's the Same," "Two for the Money," all produced out of the Goodson-Todman stable, gross the boys well over $1,[illegible] a year.

RECENT ADDITION

Recently they hatched still another offspring of their panel family, "Make the Connection," seen at 9:30 p.m. Thursdays on NBC-TV.

Mark Goodson at 40 is a man of medium height with [illegible] hair touched with a distinguished grey [illegible] eyes in an utterly impassive face.

A perfectionist personally and professionally, he has few interests except the business of producing television shows which make money. He works actively on every one of their shows on the air and concerns himself with the most minute details.

"A panel show is the most difficult of all shows to produce," he said. "[illegible] it goes on it must look so effortless, so easy.

"The hardest work on a panel show is the preparation — finding exactly the right people for the panelists and the emcee, people who are good contrasts to one another and yet work well together. Once the show is on the air it's like a train on a track. It usually just goes."

Although both men oversee all aspects of their production business, Goodson is primarily concerned with the production of the shows while Todman is the businessman, the salesman who deals with the networks and with the advertising agencies.

Both are heavily endowed with nervous energy. [illegible] man expresses his [illegible] motion. While holding an ordinary conversation, he strides around the office, dictates a memo to his secretary, [illegible] on secondary phone conversations.

Fish-Eating Mergansers Not Easy to Tell Apart in Field

By C. J. GUIGUET

THE mergansers, of which three species occur in British Columbia, are fish-eating waterfowl characterized by narrow serrated bills which has led to the common name "saw-bill" duck.

The American merganser is the largest of the three, measuring about two feet from bill tip to tail tip. The adult male in full plumage is distinctly marked and easily identified by its dark greenish-black head and neck, red bill and feet, pinkish-white undersides and flanks and by the black appearing back.

In flight the male American merganser appears largely white on the body and under wing; in fact it appears whiter than any of the other ducks, the pinkish tinge not showing up at distances and fading quickly in dead birds. Wing and wing coverts are largely black and white.

Flight characteristics are also diagnostic, a long streamlined outline from bill to tail and a rapid [illegible] serves in [illegible] identification.

In the field the female is difficult to [illegible] from that of the red-breasted merganser, the following species. [illegible] characterized by a [illegible] brown [illegible] head and a [illegible] white throat patch. The forenecks [illegible] is [illegible] the white of the lower [illegible]. Her back is grey, underparts white, [illegible] wings [illegible] the [illegible]

The serrated bill will distinguish [illegible] from all other ducks except the [illegible] and from that species both male and female American merganser [illegible] may be [illegible] by the following [illegible] these points are difficult to assess in the field and are not [illegible] the male. Here are the [illegible] differences [illegible]

The American merganser breeds throughout the province north to the tree limit. Females with broods may be seen all along the [illegible] during [illegible] the [illegible] as the [illegible] to [illegible] shore and [illegible]

JOHN HALSTEAD

DID you know that Victoria has only one-quarter as many tennis courts for its size as Vancouver? That Victoria spends only [illegible] per cent as much on recreation leadership, relatively, as the larger prairies cities?

John Halstead can reel off sombre facts like that for an hour on end, and sometimes he does. Hence newsmen and public officials have been known to duck for cover when they see him.

Since he retired from the Canadian Pacific Railway after more than 50 years' service, Mr. Halstead has devoted himself and [illegible] to the cause of recreation and children's playgrounds.

He goes at the task with the same dogged [illegible] that carried him from office boy to the post of division freight agent at Winnipeg. And once his train of thought gets highballing along the main line of community service, listeners have a hard time flagging it down.

SOMETIMES DISCOURAGED

He admits that he hasn't had as much success [illegible] people to [illegible] playgrounds as he did selling shippers the idea of sending their goods CPR. Victorians [illegible]

"This is a city of gardens, but they certainly don't look after their [illegible] flowers," he says in his [illegible] "Some day the children will [illegible] they can [illegible]"

Seattle has 10,000 or [illegible] parents Mr. Halstead points out [illegible] In fact [illegible]

[illegible]

LOT STIRRED INTEREST

Mr. Halstead became interested in playgrounds [illegible] Mr. Halstead [illegible] they gave him [illegible] as he requested.

"[illegible] a program of development," he says. [illegible] from several [illegible] people to [illegible] swings [illegible] and other items of play equipment [illegible] the [illegible] became the [illegible] of its kind in Canada.

[illegible] he [illegible] that [illegible] years until he moved away from [illegible] house on [illegible] Avenue. He is now [illegible] years old, and the family felt that he and Mrs. Halstead should have a smaller [illegible] house with a [illegible]

Now, unfortunately, the [illegible] street playground is to be [illegible] to make way for a new school, but it may be replaced elsewhere.

UNIVERSAL GRANDFATHER

Mr. Halstead doesn't go around patting [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] children up to Grade 6. He and his helpers sent out [illegible] of public and private schools. The results were disappointing.

In the public schools only two children in [illegible] and a little more in the private schools, had any equipment, even a sand box, in their home yards.

"The Parent-Teacher Association council continued the campaign alone this year, but only to Grade 4, and the results now show less than three children in 100 have backyard or home playgrounds. The rest can play on the speedways which some people call streets.

"This year, however, we have had a fine response and a large increase from the new districts. The older districts are very apathetic and have made no gain whatever. They are still mentally in the horse and buggy age."

It took Seattle PTA 20 years' work to reach its present standard. "It may take quite a few years to improve the situation here. I may not see it through, but I am hoping that we will try our best for a few more years, and then perhaps someone else will [illegible]

"Seattle by its home playgrounds greatly reduced the fatalities and accidents to children, and every time I read of an accident to children here I hope that some day our efforts here will have the same results."

LAST PUBLIC ACTIVITY

"This is probably my last public activity," said Mr. Halstead in one of his [illegible] moods. "Nobody takes an old man very seriously."

He had some plans drawn up for equipment which can easily be made to furnish home and community playgrounds. As chairman of recreation for the Parent-Teacher Federation of B.C., he distributed more than 1[illegible] sets of plans all over B.C. and to places as far away as Dawson City.

He [illegible] also campaigned to have Victoria set up a recreation commission and appoint a [illegible] recreation supervisor. Since the provincial government offered a grant to [illegible] that have a recreational commission, [illegible] B.C. cities, many of them very small, have taken up the offer. Victoria is [illegible] a $[illegible] grant by remaining aloof. [illegible] a much smaller centre, employs a [illegible] of recreation at a salary of $[illegible]

Mr. Halstead's interest in helping children goes a long way back. In Winnipeg [illegible] he had the task of [illegible] jobs for [illegible] sons and daughters. [illegible] more than 2[illegible] boys and girls. Mr. [illegible] the [illegible] and [illegible]

The Halsteads have three children of their own. Mr. Halstead was born March 21, 18[illegible], in [illegible], Ontario, in the Muskoka [illegible] where his Yorkshire father [illegible] Halstead ran a furniture factory. His mother, formerly Agnes [illegible], came from Forfar, Scotland.

MOVED TO ONTARIO

When the young Halstead was two, the family moved to lower Ontario. He was educated in Galt and London, and entered CPR service as an office boy in the London office in 18[illegible].

He subsequently worked in Toronto and [illegible] as secretary to W. B. [illegible] [illegible] up the [illegible] traffic [illegible] Vancouver [illegible] to Tacoma as CPR agent [illegible] CPR [illegible]

[illegible] 189[illegible] the year of the [illegible] gold rush [illegible] were [illegible] for [illegible] Mr. Halstead was [illegible] from the south to Vancouver. He [illegible] freight which the company could haul from border points to Canadian cities, and freight to Europe which could go on CPR boats.

Later moves took him to Calgary, where he stayed 14 years and grew up with booming Alberta; and Winnipeg, where he went in 19[illegible] as freight agent for all Manitoba and lines stretching as far as Fort William and Port Arthur.

PROUD OF BOYS

He is proud of the boys he [illegible] in his careful deliberate fashion as office boys and junior clerks. Nearly all of them have done well. One is now president of a large American railway.

He prizes his all-lines CPR pass for 50-year service, which is not a common document. He knows about everything there is to be known about the history of the Canadian flag question and the St. Lawrence seaway, having kept a detailed file on both for years. No one should mention either topic to Mr. Halstead unless he is ready to listen for half an hour.

He owned the first gasoline powered [illegible] in Calgary and [illegible] a car [illegible] for [illegible] years [illegible] had to give up [illegible]

[illegible]SY IN WORKSHOP

He keeps [illegible] in his basement workshop, making tea [illegible] and trays for friends, and little [illegible] and wagons for [illegible] grandsons. And he [illegible] town bending the [illegible] of various officials of the municipalities in his campaign to make Victoria a safe city for children to play in.

Never deterred by rebuffs, [illegible] evasions or even by [illegible] he keeps busy at his self-imposed task. Whenever possible he sees the man at the top.

"Why talk to the monkey when you can talk to the organ-grinder?" he chuckles.

The Stamp Packet

By R. M. [illegible]NGUS

In this age we read of a father in the United States who has pledged himself to buy every stamp issued in that [illegible] from the [illegible] of his [illegible] with the idea of [illegible] to put the boy through college when the time comes. At the present rate of issuance of stamps, by the time the son is old enough for college the number of stamps that will have been issued in that period will be some 40,000 all different.

There are a lot of "ifs" to the [illegible]. The cost of the stamps, if the father is going to buy the output of the whole world in [illegible] already places him in the category of a well-to-do [illegible] How does he know that he is going to have [illegible] the next lot may [illegible] As Confucius once said: "The eyes that can see the obvious are often blind to the things that are of greater import."

Adenauer Talks Of World Unity

WORLD INDIVISIBLE. With Liberty and Justice For All. By Konrad Adenauer. (New York:) Harper & Bros.

DURING the last five years the western world and its near eastern allies, Greece and Turkey, have had the good fortune to have Konrad Adenauer firmly established as Chancellor of the German Federal Republic. Winston Churchill called him "the best German statesman since Bismark," and President Eisenhower went even farther when he said that Adenauer is one of the great statesmen in the world.

That he has deserved these encomiums will be obvious to the readers of his book "World Indivisible" to which he has added a subtitle "With Liberty and Justice for All."

For more than a quarter of a century he has preached that there must be a new era of [illegible] and he has for many years [illegible] that the United States would become the [illegible] power in the world [illegible]

Atlantic Crossing of Century Ago Far Cry From Today's Quick Trip

By DOROTHY KING

LAST winter I travelled across the North Atlantic in a modern passenger steamship. I had every comfort, being accommodated in a B deck outside stateroom, air conditioned and with running water. Yet, because we had a stormy passage and the ship pitched and rolled a good deal, I vowed when I reached Canada that I would not take that trip again for $500.

Are we really getting soft these days? Here is an account of the voyage of a sailing ship which made the same trip nearly 100 years ago with a load of Irish immigrants.

Busy Nanaimo Looks Forward to Busier Future

By ERITH M. SMITH

NANAIMO is a growing city with its eyes on the future.

Built on the mining of coal, Vancouver Island's "Hub City" is completely undismayed by the end of coal mining. She has high ambitions—and new irons in the fire. Now established as the primary gateway to this Island from the mainland, Nanaimo is bent on adding to her stature as the Island's industrial capital.

Bert was given a gold replica of the plaque which provincial archivist Willard Ireland, the master of ceremonies, said would forever mark "this remarkable adventure."

Eight-year-old Louise March, 665 Grenville, presented Mrs. Thomas with a bouquet of red gladiolus. As Bert said "thanks," three-year-old Jeff Hawker, 665 Constance, scrambled to the top of the rock and shouted: "I was second!"

Pupils To Be Exposed To Visual Education

Photographs of the totem poles in Thunderbird park are part of a new venture in visual education for fifth grade pupils in 16 schools at Pittsburgh.

More than 500 CNR photographs will be shown to the pupils next month by closed circuit television, and the "film" will be followed by a 10-minute discussion in each school. The program is sponsored by the Pittsburgh board of education.

As well as Victoria's totem poles, the photographs show industry and outdoor activities in B.C., the oil industry and Jasper national park in Alberta, farming elsewhere on the Prairies, industry and fishing in Ontario, historical points in Quebec, fishing and vacation activities in the Maritime provinces and home life in Newfoundland.

Coastal Trade Debate Opens Before Commission Tomorrow

The economic and strategic future of British Columbia's coastal trade will be debated here tomorrow when the Royal Commission on the Coastal Trade starts its Pacific Coast hearings at 2 p.m. in the Courthouse.

Chief argument during British Columbia hearings is expected to centre around trade union and shipbuilding plans for restriction of Canada's coastal trade to ships built and registered in Canada.

Opposing an all-Canadian coastal trade will be B.C. lumber exporters and tug boat operators who declare in briefs already filed that they will face higher costs if lower-priced foreign vessels are in future prohibited from entering Canada's domestic shipping trade.

At least 12 submissions will be made during the British Columbia sitting of the commission which will continue in Victoria Tuesday and move to Vancouver for sittings Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

CHIEF SUBMISSIONS

Among the chief submissions will be the British Columbia Government, several trade unions, the B.C. Lumber Manufacturers' Association, MacMillan & Bloedel Ltd., B.C. Shipbuilding firms, Island Tug & Barge Ltd., Union Steamships Ltd., and Major George Nicholson.

The Island Tug & Barge Co., whose practice of importing veteran ships from foreign countries for conversion to barges would be halted if an all-Canadian policy was adopted, opposes any changes in current regulations.

"The Canadian economy will benefit by withdrawing all possible restrictions to free trade," the Island Tug & Barge submission declares.

Proponents of an all-Canadian coastal trade argue that shipyards in British Columbia are a vital and strategic link in Canada's national defence. They argue that they must be guaranteed at least all future coastal shipbuilding if they are to be of any value to the free world in the event of another war.

ALMOST ALONE

Shipbuilders say that Canada is almost alone among nations of the world in failing to guarantee to itself the business connected with its own coastal trade.

Briefs favoring restriction of the coastal trade declare that continued shipbuilding activity is essential to Canada. They point out that because wages make up 65 per cent of the cost of a ship, Canadian and United States shipbuilders are unable to compete with foreign builders, whose wages are about a third as large as those paid in Canada.

The British Columbia government brief although declaring that shipbuilding should not be allowed to die in British Columbia, is opposed to restricting coastal trade. The provincial government favors direct subsidies to keep shipyards in operation.

Major George Nicholson's brief urges that the government support a more adequate service for the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Before the start of the hearing, the members of the commission will participate in a Monday morning tour of the Victoria waterfront arranged by the Victoria Chamber of Commerce.

The tour includes stops at Ogden point, VMD's outer wharf plant, fishermen's wharf, one or two small shipbuilding firms, the government drydock at Esquimalt, Yarrows Ltd. and VMD's No. 1 yard.

Chamber members are providing private cars for the tour from 9 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The commission is headed by Mr. Justice Wishart Spence.

Seiners Leave Today

More than 60 purse seine boats have tied up again at the fishermen's wharf for the weekend close season. They will leave again for the fishing grounds at the entrance to Juan de Fuca strait this afternoon.

Fishermen report slightly better catches this week, with boats averaging about 10,000 fish each. The majority were humpback (pinks). The sockeye have now nearly all passed through the straits to the Fraser river.

Seining in this area usually closes about the middle of September.

Jobless Figures Lower

Unemployment figures in the Victoria area for both men and women continued to run lower this week than a year ago with strong demand for qualified tradesmen in many lines of work according to W. L. Leigh, of the Victoria National Employment office.

But some occupations in unskilled groups such as personal service, protective service, janitor and porter positions still show a surplus of workers over jobs.

Classifications showing more vacancies than applicants are auto mechanics, routemen, plumbers, plasterers, sheet metal workers and graduate engineers.

For women, increased number of vacancies was noted this week for waitresses, domestic workers, stenographers and kitchen workers. Sales jobs are still fairly well filled.

Call for workers for the Aluminum Company of Canada at Kitimat has met with success but only as far as unmarried men are concerned. Few married men have responded, probably because of the three-month waiting period before families can be taken into the area.

Mayor To Lead Flotilla

Mayor Claude Harrison will paddle his own canoe to lead a flotilla from Beaver lake to Elk lake Labor Day before 50 Greater Victoria youngsters try to swim the two miles back.

The mayor will be alone in his canoe but the other 50 vessels will each carry one of the swimmers, who must be at Beaver lake by 9:30 a.m. Eight rowboats are still needed, and owners should contact swim sponsor Wilf Sadler at 9-1131.

The flotilla leaves Beaver lake at 10 a.m. and the swim starts one hour later. Contestants must take their white bathing caps to Beaver lake by next Thursday night to have the caps numbered.

Swimmers must also be at the lake at 7 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday or get in touch with Mr. Sadler.

Strike Decision Monday

Producers Prepared To Deliver Own Milk

Rather than lose $6,000 a day by dumping their milk, the 200 dairymen who supply milk to Greater Victoria will deliver it as well if milkmen go on strike for higher wages.

"We could be ready to go in the 48 hours' notice which the milkmen must give the companies," said Henry G. Robinson, secretary-manager of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association.

Members of both the Victoria and Vancouver locals of the Milk Drivers and Dairy Salesmen's Union (TLC) have voted to strike, but will not set a deadline until after a meeting with company officials in Vancouver Thursday.

Union, company and government negotiators said yesterday they are still confident of a settlement but Mr. Robinson said "We can't wait until we find out definitely, and then make our plans."

He said company and union officials when informed of the dairymen's decision to deliver milk, "didn't disagree with our right to do so."

"We didn't ask them, we told them," he said.

Mr. Robinson said most deliveries would be through stores but pointed out that 28 producer-vendors who already deliver milk could run their plants on a 24-hour basis.

He thought all demands for milk in this area could be met, and said all milk will be processed.

Rev. John Scott, grand master of the Grand Lodge of B.C. Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will visit members of Victoria Lodge No. 1 and Columbia Lodge No. 2 at the Odd Fellows' hall at 8 p.m., Monday.

Convicted Constable Resigns from Force

City police constable James Bligh has resigned from the force after being convicted in court Friday of assaulting a citizen while off duty.

He gave a written resignation to Deputy Chief Harry Mercer shortly before he was to go on duty at 3 p.m. Friday.

He said yesterday that he would appeal his conviction in Esquimalt police court on a charge of assaulting John R. Davis, causing bodily harm.

He had been a member of the city force for some 2½ years.

Deputy Chief Mercer said the resignation would come before the police commission's next meeting.

Magistrate A. J. Thomas found Bligh guilty at a special police court meeting and fined him $50 or 30 days in jail. A counter-charge of assault against Davis is to be heard tomorrow afternoon.

The charges follow a fight behind the Half Way House beer parlor, 856 Esquimalt road, on July 29.

Dig Deep for Food Stall

Anticipate Chest Drive

Victorians Quickly Disprove Suggestion of Stinginess

Victorians are digging deep into their pockets and their gardens to prove that they are as generous as they used to be.

Three days ago it was reported that prospects for the surplus food stall were unsatisfactory because of lack of donations. Government statistics were also quoted showing that Victorians gave less of their income to the Community Chest than any other city in Canada.

Now Victorians have come back with a dramatic answer.

Before the 1955 Community Chest campaign has even begun, one Victoria resident, who wished to remain anonymous, [illegible] a cheque for $50 to Chest headquarters.

"It is very heartening to receive that at so early a stage," said campaign chairman R. M. "Dinty" Moore.

Following The Daily Colonist story more than 100 donations poured in for the surplus food stall yesterday.

"The stall was a momentous success," said co-ordinator Mrs. E. E. Harper last night.

"We've never had so much food before. We gave really [illegible] help to 125 families.

"Until now, we have been able to give each family a 100-pound sugar-bag of food three-quarters full.

"This Saturday we were able to fill each bag and give the same family another bag half full.

"Until three days ago we had received only a dozen offers of donations for the stall," she stated.

"The response Friday and Saturday was wonderful," she continued. "Neighbors saw someone giving a donation and rushed out with produce of their own. Our stall was overflowing with food.

"Our committee would like to thank each donor individually," said Mrs. Harper. "Often parcels were left without names, so may we thank everyone, including those wholesalers and merchants who so kindly helped."

In addition to food, the surplus food stall has received a number of anonymous gifts of money in the past three days.

The next surplus food stall will be held September 17.

The Lions club and the Victoria Labor Council picked up the donations and delivered food to some 50 old age pensioners and disabled persons unable to come themselves to the stall at the city market.

TURTLE GOES ALONG

Florence Just Chills and Bed To Canadian Girl Travelers

Miss Dee Lavoie, member of The Colonist editorial staff now holidaying on the Continent after spending the past six months working in London, tells of her unfortunate trip from Rome to Florence.

Florence . . . Florence we had heard, is one of the most charming cities in Italy.

It has a wealth of historic buildings, art treasures and churches and since it is a small city, these are all quite easy to reach.

That's as may be.

Martha and I wouldn't know.

On our last day in Rome, we both managed to pick up something involving chills, fever, and complete general malaise.

We spent that night getting up to make futile attempts at packing, giving it up, announcing we couldn't possibly leave next morning, and going back to bed.

Somehow we did manage to get organized and catch our bus to Florence. The turtle went along, too, having eventually been retrieved from under the wardrobe wearing a long grey beard of dust and a truculent expression.

The bus was very modern and quite comfortable though I maintain that all European buses and trains (especially the English) have headrests that bump out too far and give passengers a crick in the neck.

But I was at the chilling stage and spent most of the trip huddled up in sweaters, overcoat, and scarf, complaining of the cold and scowling furiously at passengers in light cotton dresses who insisted on opening the bus windows and letting the icy wind in.

Our route took us through very lovely mountain country and a charming stewardess pointed out places of interest which included medieval castles, towns clinging to the tops of rocks and picturesque villas.

I opened an eye to look out now and then.

We stopped for lunch in Assisi, home of St. Francis, a town that under other circumstances would have been fascinating. It's located on a hilltop with an imposing view out over the olive groves of the plain below and it's made up of incredibly twisting, steep, cobbled streets and flat roofed houses.

A trip through St. Francis' church was included, but Martha and I declined to go in, and sat morosely on the curb outside.

When we arrived in Florence, we went straight to our pension and into bed.

We emerged once in two days to make rather staggering progress along the River Arno, which looked just as murky and swampy as the Tiber, to the travel agency.

I also managed a half-block walk to a rather pleasant park.

Florence I understand is very interesting. I really must have a look at it sometime.

Anywhere from Brentwood to the north end of the Saanich peninsula on a Wednesday afternoon the summer sketch class of the Deep Cove Arts Centre is likely to be found. Dr. J. B. Anderson conducts the classes and is pictured above to the right. Mrs. W. Regan is left and Mrs. Helmuth Preiswerck, centre. In the background sketching from the little hill are Mrs. R. Morris and son, Michael Morris, while Mrs. D. Horton chooses a spot in the beach.

Kathleen Nuttall Becomes Bride Of S. B. Woods at Centennial

Kathleen Beatrice Nuttall made a charming picture as she entered Centennial United church last evening on the arm of her brother Mr. Howard Nuttall, to exchange wedding vows and rings with Mr. Sidney Basil Woods.

Standard baskets of pink and white gladiolus and pew markers of pink sweetheart roses tied with white satin ribbon created a floral background for the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mrs. A. Nuttall, 6[illegible] [illegible] street, and the late Mr. J. Nuttall, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Woods, [illegible] [illegible] street. Rev. Douglas B. Carr officiated.

A bouffant waltz-length gown of white brocaded taffeta fashioned with [illegible] neckline inserted with pleated tulle and sheer, bracelet length sleeves was the choice of the bride. Her chapel veil of illusion net showered with jewelled flowers fell from a miniature satin and tulle Juliet cap and she wore a single strand of pearls, the gift of the groom. Gardenias, rapture roses and stephanotis formed her cascade bouquet.

Miss Alice Nuttall, who was maid of honor for her sister and Mrs. Marjorie McKenzie, bride's matron, were gowned alike in waltz-length sleeveless dresses of iridescent taffeta styled similarly to the bride's in shades of delphinium blue and deep fuchsia respectively. Their bandeau hats were of matching material, and both carried bouquets of pale yellow roses and tinted blue carnations.

The groom had Mr. [illegible] as best man and ushering were Mr. Tom Affleck and Mr. Sid Mitchell.

While the couple signed the register Mrs. Carol [illegible] accompanied by Mrs. Margaret Wormehurst sang "O Perfect Love."

At the reception which followed Mr. Murdo Ross, a family friend, proposed the toast to the bride. White candles in silver holders lighted the bride's table centred with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with pink roses [illegible] with a miniature bride and groom and imbedded in [illegible] [illegible].

For a [illegible] trip to the interior of the province [illegible] [illegible] and Oregon, the bride donned a [illegible] [illegible] dressmaker suit with honey beige accessories topped by a mocha brown coat trimmed in beige. Her corsage was of tawny gold roses.

When they return the newlyweds will make their home on Estevan avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Howard, Mr. T. Affleck, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. C. Wood and family, and Mrs. S. Mitchell, New Westminster, were among out-of-town guests at the wedding.

Wishing Well Holds Gifts

Miss Ann Nevison, bride-to-be of next month, was honored when Mrs. Samuel Brasher and her daughter, Miss Joanne Brasher entertained at their home, 609 Ralph street at a miscellaneous shower. Corsages were presented on arrival: yellow roses and blue cornflowers for the guest of honor, yellow carnations and cornflowers for Mrs. Walter Nevison and Mrs. William Ray, mothers of the couple. The gifts filled a wishing well decorated in shades of blue and trimmed with pink rambler roses. The guests also included Mrs. Reg Fisher, Mrs. Ronald Ray, Mrs. D. Lyttle, Mrs. Charles Ray, Mrs. A. McLeary, Mrs. Arthur Halpen, Mrs. C. Greig, Mrs. W. Miller, Mrs. R. Stewart, Mrs. P. Howard, Mrs. A. Bray and Misses Ann Logan and Marie Ray.

Deviled Eggs With Seafood

Chilled deviled eggs can be a luncheon or supper in themselves; they take on real main-dish airs with the addition of seafood.

Have 6 hard-cooked eggs, lengthwise and turn the yolks into a bowl. Mash thoroughly with 3 tablespoons mayonnaise, [illegible] teaspoons Worcestershire, mince a few tablespoons chopped green olives. Add the contents of a small can of crab meat, picked over, mix thoroughly and salt and pepper to taste. Pile mixture into egg whites, sprinkle with paprika and serve cold.

Beauty and You

By MARION MATTHEWS

How can I improve the condition of my hair? It is very dry from the bleaching and the summer sun.

Hair takes time to show reconditioning efforts but I suggest you shampoo your hair with a good non-drying product — avoid the detergent type. Oil your hair before a shampoo for the next few weeks and carefully wash out oil by using at least three sudsings. Try a creme rinse after shampoos too if you find them helpful. Brush your hair each day to stimulate circulation and get it into a more manageable condition. I suggest you divide this between morning and evening sessions if you have the time. Have dry split ends of hair cut off. Also I suggest you see a professional about bleaching your hair so that it is carefully and expertly handled.

* * *

I am the sort of outdoor type and wonder if you will suggest a hair style. I am medium height, have straight black heavy hair and square-shaped face. Bones are prominent.

Even outdoor girls look feminine today and I suggest if you can that you have a good hair stylist do a basic coiffure for you. Heavy hair, well cut with good silhouette lines and perhaps bangs and in your case a side part might be more becoming than too many curls and fluff. I suggest that you have your hair long enough in back to turn up in a half curl. (Having it too short in a sort of mannish finish would not be pretty on your type.) Wave the bangs and sides and add a soft fluffy accent over the ears if this is becoming. Don't make the mistake of choosing clothes that are masculine. Wear tailored things if you like but [illegible] [illegible].

TV Talk

By ROY PARRETT

The educational TV audience will reach almost 46,000,000 when the 13 educational television stations now [illegible] About 100 additional cities in the United States have shown sufficient interest in educational TV to appoint "ways and means" committees.

Of the new stations under construction, six are community-type owned and operated by non-profit corporations; three will be under the control of education institutions and four will become part of state networks.

Of the 13 stations under construction, 11 will be very high frequency, the other two ultra high frequency. At present there are 13 educational TV stations on the air including Seattle's KCTS on channel 9. Ten are VHF stations and three are UHF outlets.

As yet there are no Canadian educational television stations.

"Your program last week was just wonderful! I didn't see it, but my husband read a review and told me about it."

* * *

TV SATURATION—Television saturation in the United States was placed at 673 station by the Columbia Broadcasting System recently. This includes some 430 stations now in operation as well as prospective ones that have construction permits or have applications on file for new stations. The CBS says this is due to economic limitations, the high cost of installation and operation making it too costly to function in small towns and sparsely settled areas. This adds up to an expectancy of fewer than 250 more stations in the United States.

Canada, which now has 30 TV stations, is expected to add another seven next year. Saturation in this country is placed at about 58 stations.

* * *

TOAST OF THE TOWN—Singing and dramatic star, Eartha Kitt, the Mariners and the Chicago Festival Singers will be Ed Sullivan's guests on channel 11 at 8. Channel 2 headlines the Mills Brothers, the Four Aces, golfer Ben Hogan, jockeys Eddy Arcaro and Willy Shoemaker on Ed's program on channel 2 at 8.

IT'S MAGIC—Blackstone the Great, whose feats of wizardry have mystified millions and Paul Le Paul, card manipulator, will be the special guests on KTNT-TV at 6.30.

FEATURE OF THE WEEK—The CBUT movie at 10.40 is "The Tinker," one of the top Edinburgh festival films.

DOLLARS & SENSE!

Why be misled by offers of so many hundred dollars more than your car is worth or free gas for thousands of miles?

Just think — would you go into business to be philanthropic? Of course not. In other words, to do you get something for nothing any time. The customer always pays somewhere in the deal.

We respect the public and the public intelligence and our policy is to offer good used cars at a fair price. You get a good car, we make a little [illegible] and everyone is happy.

HERE'S ONE FOR EXAMPLE

1953 AUSTIN SOMERSET in perfect condition, low mileage, heater, light grey and blue $1250

Of course we have many more to choose from at prices from as low as $295. Come in and talk dollars and sense with us.

Revival Plan Set for Band

NANAIMO — Mrs. Myrtle Schules, secretary of the now dormant Nanaimo junior band, announced that an attempt is being made to revive the group.

It was disbanded three years ago after operating for four years. Lack of interest and other diversions was blamed for the break-up.

The band has more than $2,000 in uniforms in moth balls and it is hoped to revive interest this winter with the help of other organizations.

Sea Rescue Follows Loss of Ship

KYUQUOT—The 32-foot troller Daisy E sank near Esperanza buoy this week but her owner was rescued by another fishing vessel.

The troller was on her way to the fishing grounds when the stern suddenly settled and the ship quickly went down. The owner, Sam Eadie, did not have time to unlash the skiff and he jumped overboard clinging to a pig, the float that supports the pig lines at the stern of the ship.

The Daisy E was partly insured.

Television Blamed

NANAIMO (CP) — Television and Davey Crockett are responsible for exerting an American influence on Canadian children, not classroom propaganda or American textbooks, says a Nanaimo teacher.

Thomas E. Bennett, an elementary school supervising principal here, told Rotarians people thought "we were going hog-wild to present the American emphasis instead of the Canadian.

"It do not think that is true at all. Our children know a great deal about the United States. I would suggest that is due to radio, television, Hollywood, the world series and Davey Crockett."

PARKSVILLE — School principal J. L. Nicholls will be available for interviews for students wishing to discuss courses and registrations at the office of the junior high school from Monday to Thursday.

ALBERNI—More than 100 varieties of dahlia are being grown by an Alberni man who this year will select his choicest blooms for a competitive entry in Alberni district fall fair.

William Hunt, helped in his project by his wife, has collected some of the most colorful and spectacular species of the huge dahlia family for his garden on Pemberton road.

Varieties in all shades of the spectrum and with gorgeous combinations of colors are just coming into full bloom and promise to be at their best by the time the fair opens on Sept. 8.

Mr. Hunt will be exhibiting in the local fair for the first time in three years and his entry will be among several by local dahlia growers whose displays lend color to the annual event.

* * *

SPROAT LAKE — Concern was expressed at the August meeting of Sproat Lake Ratepayers' Association over the fact that a float house is moored in the lake, from which many residents draw their drinking water.

It was decided to write the government agent reporting the fact that the float house is located in the lake and also asking what regulations, if any, cover the circumstances.

Business of the meeting included acceptance of the report of treasurer George Walt. It was decided that, although the association's finances are in a healthy condition, more funds would be needed before further construction work can be undertaken on the Community hall.

PORT ALBERNI—A total of $20,085 has been spent so far this season from current revenue on the city's paving program, according to a report by superintendent Len Crowshaw.

Council, on suggestion of Mayor L. K. Jordon, referred to the works committee with power to act a proposal to extend pavement for eight or 10 feet on the side of the present strip on Third avenue between Mar and Montrose streets if it is possible to fit the project into the year's program.

Tourist Boat Sinks

Family of Three Rescued from Wreck After Brand New Cruiser Hits Rock

CAMPBELL RIVER—An American family of three was rescued from rugged Loughborough inlet Friday after their brand new 33-foot cabin cruiser "The Hardway the Second" struck a rock and sank about 100 yards from shore.

The Dominion Fisheries vessel "Black Raven" which happened to be passing on a routine patrol, rescued Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walton and their 16-year-old son Ricky, who hail from Everett, Wash.

The mishap occurred about 10 a.m. Friday as the cruiser was journeying down the inlet, 52 miles northeast of Campbell River.

Mrs. Walton, who cannot swim, quickly donned a life jacket after the vessel struck the rock, and her husband and son launched the dinghy.

As the vessel slowly settled in the water, Mrs. Walton grabbed family papers, money and as many valuables as possible. All three stayed aboard until the last minute before the ship sank.

After they were picked up, the fisheries vessel radioed the Booth Logging Company at Hayden Bay, some miles away, and a party of men was sent to help salvage the cruiser at low tide.

Brought to Campbell River, the Walton's are staying at Campbell River Lodge and yesterday went salmon fishing in the Tyee pool.

Students Commute

CAMPBELL RIVER — Quadra Island parents prefer to have their children take advantage of the full high school curriculum by ferrying to Campbell River rather than take a limited course at the Quadra island school.

Only Four Miles To Build

East-West Island Road Link Excites Pioneers' Interest

By MAJOR GEORGE NICHOLSON

No golden spike will be hammered when they meet, but west coast Vancouver Islanders are following as keenly the construction of two logging roads as western pioneers did the construction of the first railway across Canada.

Only four miles separates two roads being built on either side of the island, the completion of which will make it possible to travel from Muchalat Arm on the west coast to Victoria by car or bus.

The roads are being rushed through and should be completed by late fall or early spring.

West coast travellers will drive over the logging roads until they hit the main island artery at Campbell River.

Only means of transportation at present to the areas affected are by air or the steamer Princess of Alberni, which has only two staterooms available and calls only once every 10 days.

MEET AT LAKES

The roads will meet in the vicinity of Summit lakes.

In the Campbell River portion of the new road, the Elk River Timber Company, which operates extensively in the area, has built a road almost to the summit of the dividing mountain range.

Battling through heavily-wooded slopes on the other side are crews of the Tahsis Company, who have driven roads in from tidewater at the mouth of Gold river.

As the two companies' timber claims overlap at Summit lakes, it is expected that ararngements will be made for each to use the other's roads.

ROADS NOT PUBLIC

Until this arrangement is completed between the companies and the provincial government, the roads will not be open to the public.

Unlike the proposed roads to Port Renfrew and Tofino, where the companies holding forest management licences are required to build certain sections, the Campbell River-Muchalat arm roads are being built voluntarily by the companies concerned.

A road exists from Campbell River to a point near the lower end of Upper Campbell lake. Side roads branch from it, including a blacktop road to Quinsam lake and a private jeep road to Buttle lake.

TRESTLE USED

The new road crosses the river via an old logging railway trestle at the lower end of Upper Campbell lake and follows the lake's north shoreline.

It winds in scenic loveliness along Elk river to Summit lakes, a distance of 46 miles from Campbell River townsite.

The last 30-mile stretch is strictly a private road, gravelled and in very good shape.

Except for logging roads in the Gold river area, there are no roads on the Muchalat arm side and transportation between that point and Nootka, Tahsis and Zeballos is by water.

FEEDER BOATS

Operations at Tahsis and Muchalat arm are owned by Tahsis Company, and it is understood from reliable sources that plans have been made for a small-boat feeder service between the points when the road is finished.

Passing through the upper half of Strathcona park, the road could become one of Vancouver Island's notable scenic drives.

Lakes abound on the route, and the road passes Campbell, Echo, Beavertail, Upper Campbell and many smaller lakes.

Studdy Rites Slated Monday

DUNCAN — Funeral services will be held Monday from St. Ann's Catholic church for Ewan J. C. Studdy, 75, who died at his home, Herd road, Saturday.

Until his retirement in 1944 Mr. Studdy had served with the telegraphy branch of the civil service.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy, and one son, John Harvey, in Yakima, Wash.; two daughters, Mrs. Lois Waybrant, Sardis, and Mrs. A. Cook, Fort St. John.

FARMERS FRIENDS

Experts on working conditions in agriculture will meet in Paris in September to study ways of improving the lot of sharecroppers, tenant farmers and other farm workers.

Report to Duncan

B.C. Hospital Policy Explained by Martin

DUNCAN—Sir Philip Livingston, chairman of a special committee formed to further plans for building new units to King's Daughters' hospital, reported to the board of directors Friday night regarding a visit of his committee to Health Minister Eric Martin.

A full report to the board on all details of the meeting with the minister would be given in due course, Sir Philip stated.

"Every opportunity was given to clear away any uncertainties that might exist locally in regard to the policy of the government on hospitals. The minister gave some interesting information to show that there was a sound and logical reason for the much discussed freeze order," Sir Philip said.

The board of directors has been seeking ways and means to pare costs and David R. Williams, for the cost committee, gave a report on their study in an effort to reduce costs within the estimates as approved under the freeze order.

The financial statement for the first seven months of the year presented by the administrator, Fergusson Hoey, showed a deficit of $5,825. He pointed out that the reduction in the day rate had been offset by an increase in the number of estimated patient days over the 1954 estimates.

"The deficit on operating account," he said, "was caused almost entirely by the increase in salaries and wages granted for 1955 and could not be avoided as long as these increases were not recognized as the freeze order remained in force."

Pat Russell Tries Today

Weather-Stirred Strait Defeats Dual Swim Effort

Juan de Fuca strait yesterday defeated both Victoria's Bill Muir and Toronto's Janice White and forced city salesman Johnny Flower to postpone his attempt until today, while pert Pat Russell was due to enter the water off Ediz hook early this morning.

Bad weather blew up in the turbulent strait last night and played havoc with plans of the swimmers.

Bill Muir, making his fourth and last attempt this year, lasted for five hours 11 minutes and 56 seconds after entering the water at Clover point. During that time he covered only about 3½ to four miles.

Despite an adverse tide for the first 30 minutes, the Saanich surveyor stroked well for the first hour when the power seemed to go out of his arms. He later said he fought a severe shoulder cramps for some four hours.

During the last hour he made so little progress that his navigator Ned Ashe advised him to give up.

Muir said he would tackle the strait again but not this year.

Janice White, the irrepressible Toronto teenager, started

Father's Risk Not Hereditary

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force Saturday quashed ouster proceedings against a young reservist who had been accused of associating with his father, an alleged former Communist or Red sympathizer.

Secretary of the Air Force Quarles ruled that Airman 3C Stephen Branzovich, 22, of Farrell, Pa., is not a security risk.

The ruling came virtually on the eve of a Senate investigation, scheduled next week, into the Eisenhower administration's handling of security risk charges.

Among other things, the probe will look into several cases in which government agencies cracked down on employees, reportedly because they associated with parents, husbands or wives alleged to have links with Communism.

Branzovich had been scheduled to appear before a special board next Tuesday to answer ouster charges.

Quarles, announcing he had determined after personally reviewing the case that Branzovich's continued membership in the reserve "is consistent with the interests of the national security," said there would be no hearing.

East-West Gap 'Narrowing' Possible—Eden

STONLEIGH, England (AP) —Prime Minister Eden yesterday expressed confidence the Big Four foreign ministers "can narrow the gap" of East-West difference over Germany when they meet in October.

Airplane Lands on Truck, No One Hurt, Damage Light

OROFINO, Idaho (AP)—A light airplane gliding down toward the runway landed smack atop a speeding truck instead Friday and was carried piggy-back 200 yards down the highway by the unknowing driver.

No one was hurt and the damage to the plane and truck was comparatively light.

Pilot Merel Bowler, 45, said he was only seconds away from a routine landing when "the truck drove under us."

"I heard a little noise like a blowout or something but I didn't know anything was back there," said Lloyd Coons, 27, the truck driver. "Then a wing tipped and I saw a shadow.

"I stopped, got out and looked up there. The two pilots were looking out of their cabin and they weren't hurt at all."

The truck-trailer is 50 feet long and 13½ feet high.

The plane was lifted off the truck with a crane and put back on the runway.

Egg Laid in 400 B.C. Found Unbroken

FERRARA, Italy (Reuters)—An unbroken hen egg was discovered Friday in a tomb dating back to the fourth century before Christ during excavation near Spina in the Po valley.

The egg was full of a black salty liquid which Prof. Hereo Alfiere of Ferrara Museum said had probably been absorbed through the eggshell over the centuries.

Sport Flashes

This happened in the world of sport yesterday:

Victoria Shamrocks downed Nanaimo 15-13 in the first game of their best-of-seven playoff finals; B.C. Lions bowed to Grey Cup champions Edmonton Eskimos 29-12; Vancouver's Stan Leonard is tied for third place four strokes behind the leader in the $26,800 Labatt golf tournament; Australia regained the Davis Cup; and the race for the American league pennant tightened still further.

Canada Wants New Markets Behind Curtain

OTTAWA—Canada definitely is interested in selling agriculture products to Soviet Russia and its satellite countries, federal officials said today.

It has already sold some surplus products to Iron Curtain countries and always is looking for markets there, one official said.

He was commenting on Washington reports quoting U.S. Agriculture Secretary Benson as endorsing the idea of selling U.S. surpluses to Russia.

"We are always offering grain in western Europe," the Canadian official said. "We have no hesitation in doing so."

Last year, Canada sold barley to Russia. This year, the government made a deal with Poland to sell about 9,000,000 bushels of wheat and sold 300,000 pounds of butter to Czechoslovakia.

Natural Gas Gets Approval

VANCOUVER (BUP) — B.C. Electric president, Dr. Harry Purdy Saturday announced that the public utilities commission has issued his company with a permit to serve Vancouver with natural gas.

Public Opinion Poll

Survey Shows B.C. Voters Satisfied with Socreds

Support Increases

This* is the first of a series of articles by Daily Colonist legislative reporter Ray Baines on B.C.'s political situation and relative popularity of the parties. They are the result of poll of ten ridings taken in May by a public opinion firm, plus a fact-finding tour by Mr. Baines during the summer.

By RAY BAINES

Though the Conservatives may doubt it, the CCF disbelieve it and the Liberals deplore it, there is strong evidence to show that B.C.'s Social Credit government will be around for a while.

This is not just the opinion of experts nor the hope of Social Credit followers, it is the promise of voters.

It is based on facts, percentages, expressions of support obtained from hundreds of British Columbia citizens eligible to vote in any general election which might come up in the next three years.

It is based on a scientific poll of some 1,400 voters in 10 ridings conducted in May this year by a U.S. public opinion poll organization at the request of a group of British Columbia industrialists.

It is supported by a random series of interviews conducted during the summer by this reporter in about 18 B.C. ridings.

While neither poll, nor both together, can be considered complete cross-sections of the province, the U.S. poll in particular, carefully worked out with weighed results, leaves little doubt that the present government is popular, would be returned with a greater majority and has gained considerable ground since 1953.

Conducted by a U.S. public opinion organization, the scientific poll covered the ridings of Vancouver-Burrard, Vancouver-Point Grey, Cowichan-Newcastle, Yale, Kamloops, South Okanagan, Prince Rupert, Fort George, Nelson-Creston and Lillooet.

The survey firm was from outside Canada. It knew nothing of B.C.'s recent political history before it conducted the hundreds of detailed interviews. And the pollsters cared less. They asked questions and recorded the answers, come what may.

This reporter covered more ridings but far fewer persons. The interviews were in the nature of chats with business men, workers and farmers. The results were similar. A large percentage of persons chosen at random are satisfied, or at least not dissatisfied, with the present government.

But for the purpose of these articles, we will concentrate mainly on the U.S. survey results and use The Daily Colonist survey merely to illustrate the kind of opinions expressed.

Here, then, are some of the conclusions reached by the survey team after 1,400 personal interviews and a process of weighing results to account for those ridings not covered:

1. There is a great deal of evidence to show gains in Social Credit strength since the 1953 election. It is shown by higher ratios of approval rather than disapproval of various government policies, lack of interest in the next general election, popularity of Premier W. A. C. Bennett, and a tendency for those questioned to identify themselves with the party in power (10 per cent more persons said they voted Social Credit in the last election than actually did).

Pride of Esquimalt

Two Dead, 44 Injured

Raging Holocaust Follows Gas-Cracking Tower Blast

WHITING, Ind. (AP)—A raging fire, touched off by explosion of a 26-storey gasoline cracking tower, took two lives, injured 44, and made a shambles of sections of the Standard Oil Co. Ind. refinrey Saturday.

About 950 families were evacuated from their homes. Gasoline raced down the streets of this Northern Indiana city of about 10,000 population. The gasoline ran into sewers and police issued a "No smoking" order.

Damage was estimated all the way from $10,000,000 to $100,000,000.

A hurtling piece of the huge tower smashed through the frame house of Frank Plewniak, killing his 3-year-old son, Richard, in his bed. Another son, Ronald, suffered loss of his left leg, and the father was cut by hurtling plaster.

The other death was that of Walter Rhea, 63, a foreman at the refinery, who collapsed of a heart attack after he was summoned to emergency duty.

After the initial thunderclap of force, flames spread among oil storage tanks of the big refinery. They roared through some 30 tanks and twisted two other gasoline cracking units.

But a few minutes later, a tank containing 3,200,000 gallons of naptha-propane exploded with a blinding whoosh, sending flames 1,000 feet into the air.

Company officials said it may be days before the fire actually is extinguished.

Senator Reports Radar Line Gap

LAKE STEVENS, Wash. (AP)—A critical hole has been found in the nation's outer radar warning line between Greenland and Alaska and the defence department is taking rapid steps to plug it, Sen. Jackson (D. Wash) said Saturday.

Jackson, speaking at a big rally of Western Washington Democrats, said the gap in the distant early warning (DEW) line is serious enough to place mid-continental United States in jeopardy should an enemy attack.

The senator, member of a three-man Senate committee which authorizes military construction, has just returned from a flight over the warning network in the Far North.

He reported that the warning system is being expanded on a speeded up basis, with new installations in operation by 1957.

He did not specify where the gap had been found or how soon it would be closed.

A crowd estimated at more than 6,000 persons attended the big salmon bake and speech fest, with much spadework done by supporters of Sec. of State Earl Coe and State Sen. Albert D. Rosellini, both of whom are seeking the Democratic nomination for governor next year.

Culture Booming

Victoria should concentrate on becoming the cultural capital of Canada and forget about winning new industries, says a leading Toronto business man.

Richard L. Thomas, Colonist London correspondent, tells the story on Page 6, and accompanying accounts of the coming entertainment year in Victoria show that the cultural strength of the city is already growing.

Crew Outnumber Guests

Bluebloods and Bankrolls

Admiral Elsa Takes Cruise Party on Venetian Blind

VENICE, Italy (AP)—Sailing out of the Grand Canal with "Adm." Elsa Maxwell on the bridge, the good ship Achilleus headed for Greece Saturday with a passenger list of bluebloods and bulging bankrolls.

It was all part of a plan by Miss Maxwell, famous party giver, to provide her 113 socially prominent guests with fun, culture, and an insight into the tourist attractions of Greece during a 15-day cruise.

Wearing a gold-braided admiral's uniform, Miss Maxwell had a kiss and a bear hug for the Social Register emissaries accompanying her.

There were more crewmen than guests—190 to be exact—to see that the vessel operated smoothly and that there was not an empty glass aboard. The Achilleus was well stocked with fancy food and drinks, including champagne.

The Achilleus is a passenger ship of the Greek Line, chartered for $100,000 by Greek millionaire Stavros Niarchos as his contribution to the voyage. He also provided the supplies and entertainment.

Miss Maxwell said "friends" backed her for the other expenses. Unofficial sources said the Greek government was sharing the costs to build up the tourist trade. Greece's King Paul I suggested the cruise.

After providing the ship, Niarchos decided not to take the cruise. There were other plush names on the passenger list, including France's former Premier Paul Reynaud; film star Olivia de Havilland; the French Duke and Duchess de Brissac; Count Rudy Crespi of Italy and his countess, the former Consuelo O'Connor of New York; Broadway producer Gilbert Miller; Metropolitan Opera singer Cesare Pepi; the Duke and Duchess of Argyll; writer Frederick Prokosch, and Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, Sr.

One couple was conspicuously absent—the Duke and Duchess of Windsor. They were in Venice, but efforts by friends failed to end the long spat between Miss Maxwell and the duchess.

Two more prominent guests were expected to join the party at Athens—Prince Ali Khan and Mrs. Perle Mesta, former minister from the United States to Luxembourg and a famous party giver herself.
